Ford Pleased
By Daring Raid

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Ford sent a letter to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin Sunday expressing the "great satisfaction" of the American people over the Israeli commando raid in Uganda to rescue 106 hostages aboard an Air France jet.

Ford said the Israeli rescue thwarted "a senseless act of terrorism."

The White House made public the one-paragraph letter in Philadelphia after Ford delivered a Bicentennial address at Independence Hall.

Carter Move Is
A 'Surprise'

BANGOR, Maine (UPI) — Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, said Sunday he was surprised by Jimmy Carter's invitation to confer with him as a possible vice presidential nominee but he has an open mind about the office.

Muskie was in Bangor to take part in the city's July 4 parade.

The Maine Democrat, who was Hubert Humphrey's running mate in 1968, said he received a telephone call from Carter Saturday night at his home in Kennebunk Beach and agreed to fly to Plains, Ga., Sunday.

Two Arrested on
Bombing Charges

TOPSFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — An apparent July 4 attempt to blow up a state police barracks failed Sunday as authorities investigating recent New England bombings arrested two men and seized 46 sticks of dynamite.

Two other suspects were being sought in a massive state police search.

There have been 11 bombings in Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire since April 22.

Governors Meet
At Hershey, Pa.

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI) — Governors from across the nation began gathering in Pennsylvania Sunday to discuss what role the states will play in the nation's "third century," talk election year politics and greet Queen Elizabeth.

Iowa Gov. Robert Ray, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, predicted in a televised interview Sunday that states will take a greater leadership role in U.S. life in the next century.

"I would expect the states to play a very dominant role in the third century," he said. "I think you will find more and more leadership there."

To 244 Deaths

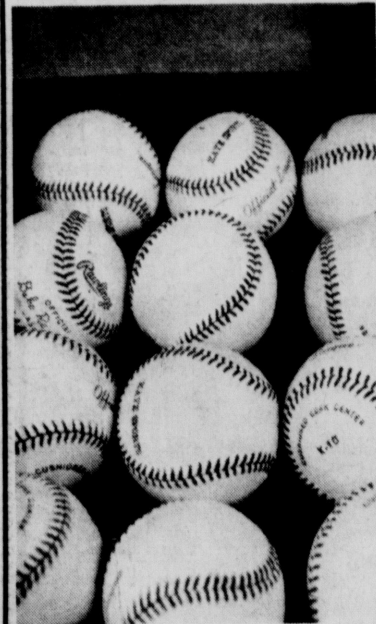

Americans flocked in cars to festivities commemorating the nation's 200th birthday Sunday, triggering scores of traffic deaths.

The National Safety Council projected that between 530 and 630 persons would die on the nation's roads during the three-day weekend beginning at 6 p.m. local time Friday.

A United Press International count showed 244 persons had died in traffic accidents by 5 p.m. EDT Sunday, still before millions take to the roads for the trek home from holiday journeys.

Israelis Rescue 100 Held Hostage in 2,300-Mile Raid

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — In a stunning 36-minute midnight strike into Uganda, Israeli commandos rescued more than 100 hostages held by pro-Palestinian hijackers and flew triumphantly back to Tel Aviv Sunday.

"Quick—run for the planes!" the commandos screamed in Hebrew amid machine gun bursts at the Entebbe, Uganda, airfield where hijackers held 104 hostages from an Air France Airbus hijacked last Sunday.

More than 100 Ugandan soldiers, three hostages and the Israeli officer who led the raid were reported killed by the shrapnel and bullets that ripped across the airfield. At least 11 hostages and Israeli were reported wounded.

Israeli officials said all seven hijackers—two Germans and five Arabs—were killed.

The attack force flew 2,300 miles into Entebbe in three planes just before midnight Saturday, apparently under the pretext of delivering imprisoned guerrillas demanded by the hijackers.

The paratroop and infantry units, some in civilian clothes, leapt from the planes and stormed the sweltering terminal where the hostages slept surrounded by dynamite.

"It was very fast—a few shots and then explosions all over the place," said David Elberbaum, one of the freed hostages. "We all lay down on the floor and then our soldiers came running in."

He said one of the hijackers tossed a grenade at the hostages—71 Israelis, 10 of whom hold dual citizenship in the United States and elsewhere, 21 French nationals and 12 crew members—as the soldiers rushed the building.

There were 258 persons—including four hijackers—aboard the Air France jetline hijacked June 27 on a flight from Tel Aviv to Paris.

The hijackers, later joined by three comrades, freed 149 non-Jews Wednesday and Thursday.

The guerrillas claimed allegiance to the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Hundreds of relatives surged across an air force base near Tel Aviv Sunday morning to embrace the first weary, red-eyed and unshaven hostages to arrive.

"It was the longest week of my life," said Janet Almog, from Madison, Wisc., now married to an Israeli. "We did think we would get out, but not that way."

The raid came only hours before the 7 a.m. EDT Sunday deadline set by hijackers for meeting their demand that 53 imprisoned guerrillas—40 in Israel and 13 in Switzerland, West Germany, France and Kenya—be released.

Israeli leaders used negotiations as a cover for the attack in a C130 Hercules military transport and two El Al Boeing 707 jetliners.

In Kampala, President Idi Amin said he was "counting the bodies" of Ugandan soldiers killed in the raid and placed his 20,000-man army on full alert.

Ugandan Foreign Minister Juma Oris said more than 100 Ugandan soldiers were killed, 11 warplanes destroyed and an airport building wrecked during the "Zionist invasion" of his country.

City Drug Busts: 91% for Pot

NEW YORK CITY—The City of Kingston contributed 61 marijuana arrests to the New York State total of more than 30,000 in 1975, according to statistics compiled by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML).

The 61 arrests comprised 91 per cent of the 67 drug arrests in the city. Statewide, exclusive of New York City, marijuana arrests accounted for 85 per cent of all drug busts.

Some figures for other communities, with the marijuana figure listed first and total drug arrests second, are: Newburgh 58 of 59; Poughkeepsie 42 of 90; Albany 211 of 283; New York State Police 6,543 of 7,486; Troy 92 of 92; Nassau County 1,378 of 1,629; and New York City 7,154 of 17,083 or 41.9 per cent.

The State Legislature recessed last week without acting on a half dozen marijuana reform bills. They included separate decriminalization proposals advanced by Governor Carey, Senate Minority Leader Manfred Ohrenstein, and Assemblymen Richard Gottfried, H.J. Miller and Stanley Fink, respective chairmen of the Assembly Child Care, Health, and Codes Committees.

It was the second straight year that state marijuana arrests topped 30,000, although the number declined from 34,082 in 1974 to 33,855 in 1975. There were 23,603 arrests in 1973.

Frank Fioramonti, state director of NORML, said the data was made available by several legislative and executive department sources, as FBI statistics have not yet been published for 1975 and this information has not previously been revealed to the public.

Fioramonti, speaking for NORML, said, "Two very disturbing patterns emerge from these shocking statistics. First, only 1,979 of these arrests, a mere 5.8 per cent, were for the sale or distribution of marijuana. Thus, despite frequent statements that the police are only interested in apprehending marijuana sellers and dealers, over 94 per cent of all arrests were for simple possession."

The brunt of marijuana law enforcement still falls on very young people. According to the New York City Police Department, more than 50 per cent of the more than 7,000 city marijuana arrests last year were of persons under the age of 20; and 73.8 per cent were under age 24.

Based on a 1972 Vera Institute of Justice study, that set the cost of processing an average arrest at $1,702, and allowing for inflation since then, NORML estimated that marijuana arrests in 1975 cost state and local governments more than $60 million tax dollars.

MARKET BASKET

Food Prices Up Again

KINGSTON — Continuing high prices for fresh fruits and vegetables pushed the cost of feeding a family of four in Kingston up .7 per cent for the week ending July 2, according to figures compiled by the Ulster County Consumer Information branch of the district attorney's office.

The cost of the 41-item market basket was $65.98 for the week. The same foods cost $65.55 for the week ending June 25.

While the fruits and vegetables food category went up, meats and fish went down 8 per cent.

The market basket in the Ellenville-Warwarsing area was up to 3 per cent less expensive than grocery shopping in four other geographical areas sampled by the consumer information branch.

The market basket cost $65.84 in the Ellenville-Warwarsing area. The New Paltz-Rosendale-Port Ewen market basket, last week's low price leader, cost $65.96. Kingston's $65.98 was close behind.

The Marlboro-Lloyd area was the most expensive in which to shop, with a market basket total of $66.28.

Pressure on Central Hudson

Legislators to Buck Increase

KINGSTON — Two local lawmakers will ask the county legislature to pressure the Public Service Commission to refuse Central Hudson an increase in rates at their July 8 session and will probably oppose moving the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board from Kingston.

Legislators Eugene Perry, D-City, and James Canino, D-Dist. 9, will urge pressure on state officials to act unfavorably on an application by Central Hudson to increase residential, commercial and industrial electric and gas rates by as much as 11.7 per cent.

A proposal to consolidate Ulster County's ABC Board with Sullivan County's board and move the Kingston office, located here for 42 years, to a new location, is frowned on by both parties. Peter Savago, R-Dist. 8, and James Gilpatric, D-City, want the State Liquor Authority to continue to maintain and staff the Kingston office for the convenience of local licensees.

Already on record as favoring the lease or purchase of a computer power management system for county buildings, the legislature will move to hire Kingston architect Albert Scarperi to draw the required installation plans.

With 2,500 county residents newly eligible for SSI food stamps, five welfare examiners will be hired for the Social Services Department. Their salaries will be 100 per cent reimbursable by the federal government. Hirings and promotions at the County Infirmary, however, will cost close to $11,000 for 10 persons involved, including nurses, aides, food service and laundry workers and one laborer.

The Tax Base Study Committee has recommended requesting Albany leaders to reconsider bills permitting the state's government units to levy real property taxes in excess of constitutional limits. The Public Health Committee supports a contract between the state and county to aid the swine flu program here through appropriations.

To permit immediate hiring of a temporary administrator on a consultant basis for the county's Youth Bureau, a transfer of budget funds will be asked to cover the $2,000 salary involved.

Specifically attuned to summer will be requests to purchase four air conditioners for the Real Property Tax Service Agency, and two for the Food Stamps Offices at Golden Hill.

Patriotism Wins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Bicentennial Fourth of July celebration which began on a note of protest swelled Sunday to a patriotic finale which drew hundreds of thousands of persons to a thundering fireworks welcome to the third century of American independence.

For Washington, the 200th birthday of the Declaration of Independence featured a new left rally sponsored by the People's Bicentennial Commission, a procession of visitors to view the document adopted in Philadelphia two centuries ago and what was described as the greatest fireworks display in U.S. history.

Even for a city used to tourists but dead on Sundays, Washington took on a look of a state fairgrounds in its downtown streets. T-shirts abounded — some emblazoned "Maryland is for Crabs" or "Beneath this T-Shirt beats the Heart of America."

The protest rally sponsored by the Peoples Bicentennial Commission drew far fewer than its backers had anticipated. The best guess by police of the crowd at the demonstration at the foot of Capitol was 10,000 to 15,000 adherents compared to the 50,000 and more hoped for by organizer Jeremy Rifkin.

But the evening fireworks display on the Washington Monument grounds, began pulling crowds to the Ellipse and other vantage points hours before the event was scheduled.

By mid-afternoon, spectators headed for early seating on the grassy expanses providing the best viewpoint for the pyrotechnics. They streamed toward the fireworks area toting picnic hampers, coolers, children papoose-style, blankets and tents. Even a late-afternoon spattering of rain didn't deter them.

Some of those at the protest left before the final speeches were over to find a spot for the firework display.

President Ford completed a swing up the eastern seaboard to Valley Forge, Philadelphia and New York to return to the White House to view the spectacular from the privacy of the Truman Balcony in executive mansion.

The PBC rally fell short of the number planned for the appearances of Jane Fonda, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, ecologist Barry Commoner and Rifkin. The day-long event went off without incident.

Bombing Attempt Fizzles

TOPSFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—An apparent July 4 attempt to blow up a state police barracks failed Sunday as authorities investigating recent New England bombings arrested a man and seized 46 sticks of dynamite.

Two other suspects were being sought in a massive state police search.

There have been 11 bombings in Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire since April 22.

FBI Special Agent Richard Bates said courthouses in Boston, Lowell and Newburyport, Mass., were bombed by devices similar to a pair of tape-wrapped packages of dynamite found in the suspect's automobile Sunday.

"The bomber knew what he was doing," said state police bomb expert Joe Sainato about the quality of the two bombs.

Maine State Police and the FBI began following a car in Maine late Saturday night as part of an investigation of the May 11 double bombing in Augusta of the Central Maine Power Co.

Authorities said they trailed the car through New Hampshire to the two-story red-brick headquarters of the Massachusetts State Police, where two of the suspects left the car and walked to the rear of the building just before midnight. The third man remained in the car.

Police moved in, but the two suspects fled into a wooded area. The third man sped away.

State police converged on the area and the car was found in nearby Peabody at 3:45 a.m., where it had hit some trees while trying to turn a corner.

At 5:39 a.m., Joseph Acido, 23, of Portland, Maine, was arrested about a half mile from the accident and charged with illegal possession of firearms. He was held pending arraignment Tuesday in Salem District Court.

State Police bomb experts found the cache of dynamite beneath the front seat of the automobile. Twenty-two loose sticks were found in a woman's black purse and the rest was wrapped into a pair of bombs bound by black electrician's tape and attached to crude timers made of cheap pocketwatches and batteries. One bomb contained 19 sticks of dynamite and the other 5 sticks.

An automatic rifle, two pistols and ammunition were also discovered in the car.

Kehoe said the dynamite was part of 600 pounds of explosive stolen May 2 from Daniel's Blasting and Drilling Co. in New Boston, N.H. He said 500 pounds were still missing.

Mexicans Pick New President

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Former treasury secretary Jose Lopez Portillo, sole candidate on the ballot, was elected president of Mexico Sunday against only token opposition from three write-in candidates.

Backed by the powerful Revolutionary Institutional Party machine, dominating force in Mexican politics since the 1930s, the 56-year-old Lopez Portillo's only concern was the extent of possible voter apathy.

However, the PRI forecast a tally of at least 16 million votes for the one-time university professor who will succeed President Luis Echeverria for a six-year term Dec. 1.

Millions of men and women aged 18 and over lined up at the 43,358 polling place throughout the nation when the polls opened Sunday morning in the federal district here and in 32 states.

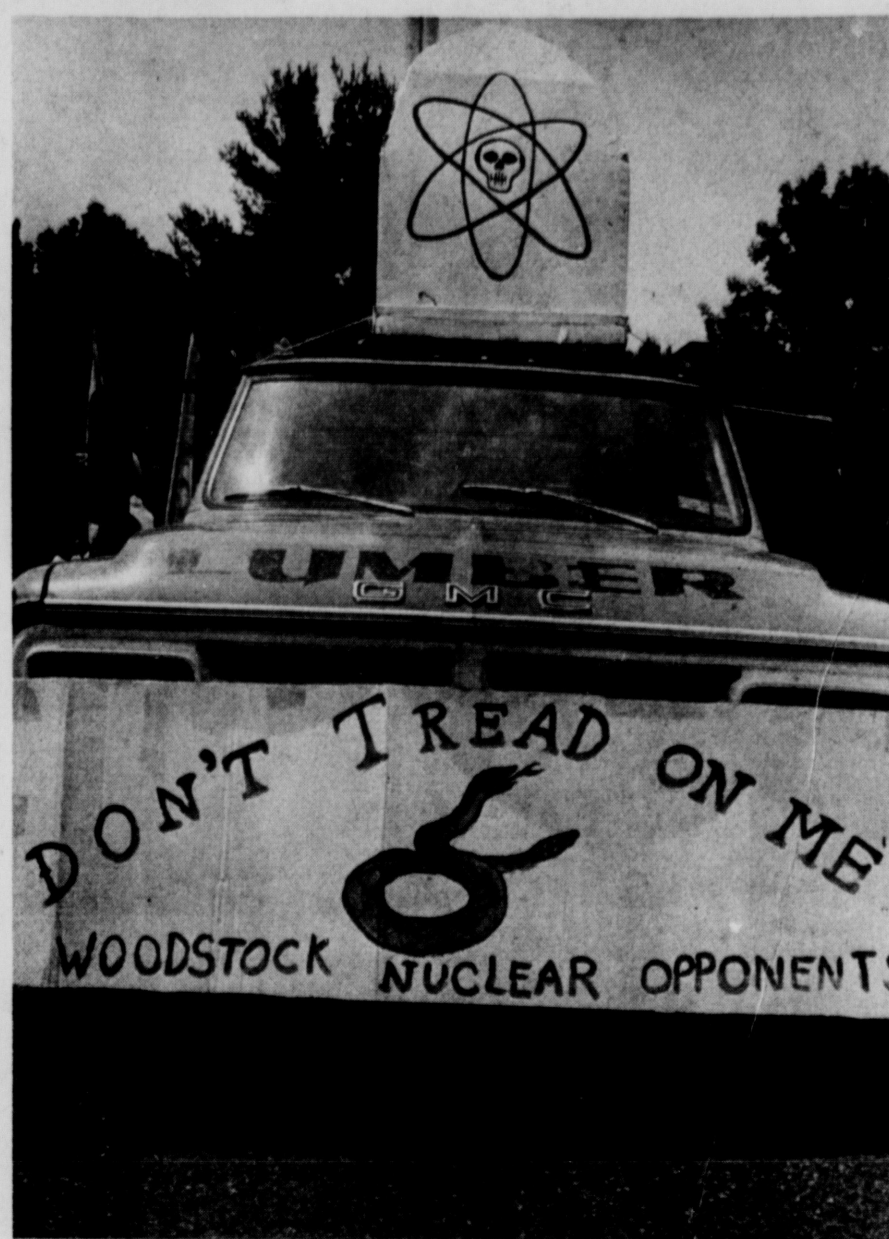

There were 25.9 million registered voters, an all-time record, but the token opposition to Lopez Portillo left the presidential contest devoid of any drama.

Police stood by in cities, towns and hamlets in case of any disorders. Held in readiness to back them up in case of any major trouble were units of the Mexican army. All 64 Senate seats and all 194 seats in the chamber of deputies were also at stake in the national elections.

But, as with the presidency, opposition parties were given only the minutest chances of winning more than a handful of seats.

The absence of any traditional opposition to the presidential ballot was a first in modern Mexican political history.

DON'T TREAD ON ME

"Don't Tread on Me," as old a warning as the Revolution itself, seems to be a rallying cry with modern applications. The Woodstock Nuclear Opponents adopted it as the theme of their float in the Woodstock Fourth of July Parade, held Sunday. The group was protesting the possible location of nuclear power plants in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

POLICE BEAT

City Woman 'Critical' After New Paltz Crash

NEW PALTZ—A 20-year-old Kingston woman was listed in "critical" condition Sunday night in the intensive care unit of Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie after a one-car accident in New Paltz Saturday Morning.

Valerie Burew was injured when her car crossed the center line of North Chestnut Street in the village and struck a tree head on, according to the New Paltz Police Department. She was taken to the hospital by the New Paltz Rescue Squad.

The police said "evidence at the scene" indicated that she may have fallen asleep at the wheel. The investigation is continuing.

High Speed Chase

An 18-year-old Hurley man was arrested early Sunday morning after leading police on two chases in stolen cars at speeds over 100 miles per hour, according to the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

John Stephano was taken into custody and charged with criminal possession of stolen property in the first degree and various traffic violations, said Sheriff's Deputy Tom Johnson.

The chase began about 6 a.m. when Michael Lyons of the Sheriff's Department spotted a Lincoln Continental reported stolen earlier in the evening heading north at speeds above 100 miles per hour on Route 9W in the Town of Ulster, police said.

Lyons gave pursuit while the fleeing car swerved in and out of traffic, finally running off the road near the Belvedere Lounge. The driver then allegedly ran into nearby woods. Meanwhile New York State Police and Saugerties police joined the chase.

Thirty minutes later, police said, a stolen Rambler emerged from the woods with Stephano behind the wheel. He was seen and taken into custody by police.

Stephano was arraigned before Town Justice Cattelli and remanded to Ulster County jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Carter Ponders Muskie for VP

Sen. Edmund F. Muskie headed for the Plains, Ga., home of apparent presidential nominee Jimmy Carter Sunday and a conference about the possibility of his becoming the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Carter's disclosure he planned to meet the Maine senator — the first of a series of sessions with possible running mates in the coming week — was the major political development of a holiday weekend dominated by Bicentennial celebrations.

President Ford participated in ceremonies in Valley Forge, Pa., Philadelphia and New York City, taking advantage of an audience of more than 100,000 persons at Philadelphia's Independence Hall to deliver some political oratory.

"There is still so much to be done," Ford said. "...We must develop a safer society without fear of crime. Build a more stable international order, improve health and conquer disease ... to enrich the quality of American life at work, play and in our homes."

Ford's rival for the Republican nomination, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, spent a quiet July 4th celebration at his ranch outside Santa Barbara. His supporters predicted they would take all 31 Colorado delegates to the Republican national convention, who will be chosen next weekend.

Carter told newsmen Muskie would arrive around midnight Sunday and confer with him Monday. The senator was Democratic vice presidential candidate in 1968.

"I think that he's demonstrated in the past as vice presidential candidate his acceptance around the nation," Carter said of Muskie. Carter added, however, "I'm going to keep my options open right on up to the time of the nomination of myself. I don't want to close any doors."

Democratic Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota said in a televised interview Sunday Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., would be the strongest running mate for Carter. Mondale is among the half dozen Carter named as under consideration.

In Austin, Tex., Republican Sen. John Tower said Saturday Ford would win the GOP nomination and suggested former Texas Gov. John Connally as a good running mate.

Five Are Dead in Crash

AVOCA, N.Y. (UPI) — A five-month-old child Sunday became the fifth victim of a head-on collision Saturday in Steuben County, according to state police.

Troopers said young Joline Keukelaar of Victor died at Arnot-Ogden Hospital in Elmira after remaining in critical condition throughout the night.

Four other members of Joline's family were killed Saturday evening when the van in which they were riding collided head-on with a tractor-trailer in Avoca.

Troopers said the truck was passing a vehicle when it rounded a curve and met the van. Both vehicles swerved but failed to avoid the crash. Also killed in the crash were: Mary Cooke, 55, of Holcomb; her son, Joseph Cooke, 34, of Victor; her daughter, Margaret Keukelaar, 30, of Victor; and her granddaughter, Waneta Forbes, 14, of Holcomb.

Remaining in critical condition at the hospital in Elmira was 11-year-old Jeffrey Forbes of Holcomb. In fair condition in Bath was Mary Forbes, 36, of Holcomb.

In satisfactory condition in Bath were: Audra Keukelaar, 4; Connie Keukelaar, 5; and Richard Forbes, 6.

Mars Data Puzzles Viking Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Some of the Viking project scientists were spending the long holiday weekend studying "puzzling" Martian data sent back by Viking 1.

"A different picture of a dynamic planet is emerging," a scientist said.

The spacecraft is to send its lander to the surface of Mars July 17 in an area called the Northwest Territory, a windy northern plain that once may have been the end of a river delta.

Temperature and water vapor readings of the planet gathered from infra red spectroscopy instruments on the orbiting spacecraft do not fit the theories, a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Sunday.

"Some of these readings are frankly puzzling," Dr. George Sands of Mission Control said.

"It's obviously wetter than they anticipated. There's no doubt there's ground fog at the landing site during part of the day," a JPL spokesman said. "And the amount of argon at the south polar region—that's something interesting."

The south polar region temperatures were colder than scientists thought possible, below

the condensation point of carbon dioxide which makes up much of the Martian atmosphere.

Tests also showed the polar cap region had about 80 per cent of an inert gas which was believed to be argon. But the gas does not cover the planet in such amounts, the spokesman said.

About 30 microns of water have been found in the atmosphere at the landing site, enough to cause ground fog, frost and even snow.

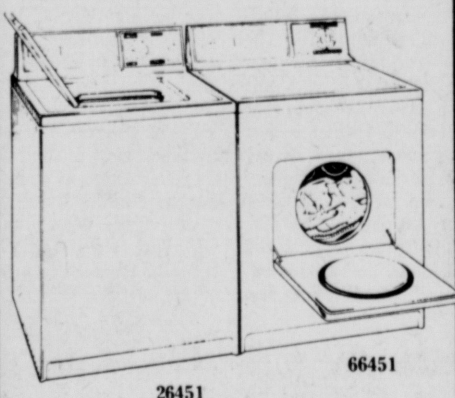

The models of Mars scientists had been working with did not provide for the data they have received, the spokesman said.

Also being studied were radar readings from the 1,000 foot dish at Arecibo, Puerto Rico, which scientists said would help determine the hazards of the landing site.

Viking 1's orbit will be shifted July 8 with course correction and it will slowly move toward the landing site, about 150 miles from the first choice landing area which was found to be too hazardous.

On July 12, another course correction, requiring a small engine burn, will be made to put the spacecraft into synchronization with the rotation of the planet prior to separation and landing.

STAFF'S CHANCE

Let's take an old-fashioned walk, or auto ride, through uptown Kingston. Pile everybody into the family car and come to the corner of North Front and Green streets, on you'll notice more. Start with the 1600s, the Nicholas Hoffman House and the Frog Alley Ruin; walk along Green to John, past the house of the first sheriff; to Crown Street's remarkable corner, the 1700s with the Stockade Restaurant Building, formerly Kingston Academy, a junior college during Revolutionary Days; the Home Extension office building and the two private homes. Walk on over to the corner of Wall and Main streets for the 1800s with St. Joseph's Church and Old Dutch Church and Fred Johnston's home of Federal design. The Old Dutch Church built in 1852 has Egyptian lines as you stand and look at it. Then on over to the corner of Fair and Main for the glass County Office Building of this century.

There, four centuries within four blocks, probably the only city in the United States with original buildings from each of the centuries still intact and still being used. Although the Nicholas Hoffman House is not in use at the moment, the Tappen House on Crown Street is of the same late 1600s and has recently been opened as the drive-in window office for Heritage Savings Bank.

Try to imagine the type of people who might have taken the same path during each of those four centuries. There were daring Dutch traders; rabble-rousing rebels, enough to have the whole town burned in 1777; blue stone merchants and teamsters; farmers, seamen and Delaware and Hudson "canawlers." Young women sat by those attic windows weaving and fashioning clothes. Young men have left to fight in all the wars from the Indian massacre of 1663.

If there's historical celebrating to be done, we have a bona fide setting.

77-year-old Fears Bankruptcy

Dear Editor:

On June 25 the Hon. Benjamin Gilman scheduled an appearance to speak to his constituents at the Plattkill Town Hall. Although Mr. Gilman came 1 1/2 hours late, the assembled citizens, mostly angry taxpayers, patiently waited. One question asked of him was why the American public must subsidize the billionaire corporations. When corporations make a profit, it is divided among the big executives, but when they are in trouble, the general public must rush to their rescue. If this is the case, why doesn't our government nationalize all corporations and get both profit and loss? Mr. Gilman answered that we cannot interfere with private enterprise.

Other questions were about the increased assessments. Mr. Gilman suggested that the taxpayers hire lawyers, or approach the legislators. It is useless to plead with such politicians since they are the same legislators who mandated such a mess. It would be like trusting chickens to a pack of foxes.

I told the congressman that last year my assessment was $22,000, and I paid $2,000 in taxes, but now with a tax assessment 13 times more than last year ($273,000), only God knows what the tax total will be. This means that I, at the age of 77, after 40 years of hard work, must start to pack and declare bankruptcy. I then told Mr. Gilman that if such unjust taxation is not revised, by the year 1977 there will be an influx of bankrupt taxpayers.

I see no difference between being robbed by a Communist take-over or by our own legislators who are very busy increasing their own LULUs and salaries.

Kindness to Puppies Misplaced

Dear Editor:

I read an article recently in this Letters to the Editor column about how pleased this person was to see a family giving away puppies in front of Caldor's rather than bringing them to the S.P.C.A. or abandoning them. Well, let's look at the real side of the coin. These people were giving puppies to total strangers, not knowing or caring what kind of treatment these poor creatures would receive. They were adding to the overpopulation of unwanted litters because mostly every person that took a puppy, if they kept it, would not bother to have it spayed or neutered. They also won't learn a lesson and have their dog spayed — they will think how easy it is to get homes for the litters.

What a horrible thing it is to have dogs and cats given away as if they were inanimate objects with no feelings at all of their own. It's a good thing I did not visit Caldor's and see the puppy give-away — I would probably be a resident of the county jail for creating a disturbance.

No Answers to Nuclear Safety

Dear Editor:

The "establishment" and its entourage of labor unions and professional societies are attempting to justify an expanded nuclear power program in New York State.

Numbers of scientists and engineers are claiming that if we are to have adequate electrical power we must use the nuclear technology upon which we have lavished billions of dollars.

The public, however, is beginning to suspect that no additional, enormously expensive nuclear plants will ever be needed if we use our present vast electric generating capacity more efficiently. A federal survey has shown that we are still wasting 56 per cent of our energy. No sacrifice, no belt-tightening is needed, but an all-out effort must be made to reduce waste.

Experts are agreed it would be a great stimulus to the economy and create hundreds of thousands of jobs if we used present energy more efficiently. Many states are encouraging energy conservation by allowing tax breaks for homeowners who insulate. Industrial and commercial firms have demonstrated savings of up to 30 per cent. If 20 years of expenditure have not been able to make nuclear power fairly safe, it stands to reason that the job cannot now be done by spending more millions.

Just as it took the public many years to wake up to the facts about Vietnam, the public is now only gradually beginning to comprehend the magnitude of damage to this country and a fragile planet if we persist in this most complex and dangerous way of boiling water.

There must be widespread public discussion. The popular decision of people affected by a nuclear proposal should prevail.

In a number of communities, public forums have been sponsored by medical societies, labor unions, church and women's civic groups so that the public can hear both sides of the story. It would be a great public service if the colleges in the mid-Hudson River Valley were to sponsor this fall an all day or possibly two day convocation of experts.

U.S. Heavyhanded Toward Cuba

WASHINGTON (KFS) — El Presidente Gerald Ford dropped in on Puerto Rico the other day and the first thing he did was to tell El Jefe Supremo, Fidel Castro, to keep his cotton-pickers off that island. If Ronald Reagan had said it everybody would be yapping about how irresponsible he is.

The Cuban threat is a geopolitical version of the miracle of the loaves and the fishes. Here is an island nation that's about 760 miles long, 50 miles thick with 8.5 million people, and to listen to American officialdom you'd think that this small gang of stogie pufflers are about to conquer the world. When they're not subverting Puerto Rico we're warning them of Panama, Angola or Rhodesia. Where do they get all the troops for these escapades? Russian volunteers and left-wing Hollywood starlets who missed the charter flight when the Venceremos Brigade went home to Pasadena?

No man and no country in the world is as adept at getting the American government's goat as Castro and Cuba. We rise to the bait every time and we do it with such unvarying consistency that Castro plants rumors of new Cuban subversions in unlikely places as a pastime. Don't be surprised to read that Kissinger has warned the Maximum Leader of Cuban socialism to stop fomenting civil war in Lebanon.

In the last few years saner heads in Washington have begun to question this ceaseless and pointless vendetta against our Caribbean neighbor. Why, they want to know, do we continue to try to embargo and starve the Cubans 18 years after their revolution? We did the same with the Russians and with the Chinese only to give it up and admit we'd made idiots of ourselves.

Given the history of U.S.-Cuban relations, it's they who have every moral right to be attempting to quarantine us. Cuba might be considered the first country in which the United States tried out what is now called neo-colonialism; that is, having ostensibly free and independent states which are in reality run by an invisible American proconsul. Back at the turn of the century the technique wasn't perfected so we sometimes left our paw prints around. Thus the first Cuban Constitution (Article III) had a remarkable clause in it conceding "that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the Treaty of Paris...". The aforesaid Treaty of Paris ended the Spanish-American War and, although it determined Cuba's fate until the coming of Castro, the Cubans neither drafted it nor signed it.

Under this intervention clause, known as the Platt Amendment, we thrice sent troops into the country. The worst was in 1906 when we sent a certain Charles Magoon of Nebraska to be the governor of Cuba. The indignity of it! To be ruled over by a man named Magoon. In the America of 1906 or now such as a Magoon should aspire to nothing higher than saloon keeper or alderman.

Magoon was but one of a succession of Americans sent to Cuba to teach "the cheating 'manana' lot" as Theodore Roosevelt called the inhabitants of that island, how to conduct themselves in a democratic and Anglo-Saxon manner. The Cubans were bad pupils. They rioted and revolted under a procession of Quisling presidents who set new records for theft, speculation and diversion of funds from the public purse.

The American penetration and domination of the Cuban economy left the little island in a condition of near vassalage. A U.S. Department of Commerce publication in 1956 made the point better than any Marxist-Leninist could: "American participation exceeds 90 per cent in the telephone and electric services, about 50 per cent in public service railways and roughly 40 per cent in raw sugar production. The Cuban branches of the United States banks are entrusted with almost one-fourth of all bank deposits... The outlook for additional investment is also good." (As quoted in "Revolution in Cuba," by Herbert L. Matthews, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, 1975.)

That by no means exhausts the catalogue of American ownership and control. The mining interests were American and so were the tourist hotels, the dope peddling and prostitution. By the time Castro came to power we'd turned Cuban men into busboys and pimps and Cuban women into whores. No revolution could take over in such a situation without confiscation of foreign investments. We Americans ought to understand that, given the national freakout at the publication of the mere possibility that the Arabs might buy a chunk of one of our better-known, near-bankrupt airlines.

The American policy has been anything but empathetic. While playing down the actual history of the relations between the two countries, in public Castro has been denominated a bandit, and in secret the scum of the Mafia were sworn into the CIA and told if their hit men scored on the Cuban leader they could have their whore houses back.

Aspiring to The Dollar Bill

This is a good time to examine the national conscience. Everything in America is almost right. Not quite, but almost. We adore success. It is the sole goal. Success means money. Lots of money.

We aspire to the dollar bill. This is a greenish piece of paper 2 5/8 inches by 6 1/8 inches, 43/1000 of an inch thick. Anyone who has 2,796 of them has a stack one foot thick.

The piece of paper is increasingly worthless. As an example, a pound of steak cost 17 cents in 1910. The cost today averages $1.89, a devaluation of 1,100 per cent.

The cheaper the dollar gets, the harder we chase it. Fewer and fewer become richer and richer and more and more become poorer and poorer. Dollars became scarce, so Diners Club issued a credit card.

Some credit cards were in existence in 1900, but Diners made the game popular in 1950. Overnight, it became possible to spend dollars we didn't have, or hadn't earned. The card was magical.

The card became the dollar. It was the middleman between the restaurant and the customer. Eight years later, the Bank of America and Chase Manhattan got into the act.

Today we have 82 million persons living off cards. We don't need the greenbacks. Card holders live 30 days behind their expenditures. Most of us are a month in arrears of our debts. If we cannot pay, most cards will charge 18 per cent interest per year on what we owe.

The weakness of the card is the predilection of Americans to purchase more than they can afford. We buy 23 per cent more than we should. We see; we want; we buy.

The National Business Council for Consumer Affairs states that, as a people, we are in debt for $140 billion each year. Of this, $2.5 billion can be written off as bad debts.

Thousands of shops and restaurants discount what we owe for the original almighty dollar. They take our signed debts to a bank and settle for 2.5 per cent to 7 per cent less than face value. The bank takes a chance that, in time, it will collect the full amount.

All information, good and bad, goes into soulless computers whose only relation to humans is that they commit errors. The machine sometimes gives a good credit risk a bad name. Congress, acting fearlessly, passed a law against the computer in 1971 to "protect consumers against... inaccurate or obsolete information."

The interminable race for the dollar continues. There is an organization called the Internal Revenue Service which also hunts dollar bills. In 1913, Congress passed a law enabling the IRS to charge all wage earners a certain amount of their dollars to keep the government chunking and churning.

This is reasonable because, as Thomas Paine pointed out, a man must pay a certain amount of his wealth so that the government may protect his right to the remainder of it.

The IRS believes that Americans are inherently dishonest. Each year, it audits 2.5 million income tax returns, hoping to frighten the remainder. For this shameful task, the IRS requires 45,000 highly paid employees. No one has ever audited the IRS.

These are the faceless monastery monks of our republic, the Inquisitors in double-knit suits. They squeeze the money from the taxpayers to defray the cost of the government.

The cost always goes up. Most of the hundreds of billions are paid by persons earning from $4,000 to $25,000 a year. One billion defrays the cost of the IRS, which produces nothing. Last year 300,000 Americans declared personal bankruptcy.

The Social Security system doesn't have to chase dollars. They pour like Niagara. The wage earner and the employer pay. And yet, as Irving Wallace points out in "The People's Almanac," few citizens get back more than 33 per cent of what they put into the system.

The same money, contributed by worker and boss, deposited in a bank at 5 per cent interest, would yield almost twice as much at age 65. The aged, if they survive by additional work, must continue to pay Social Security and income tax.

The chase for the dollar is a fast escalator going in the wrong direction. Once upon a time it was an American custom to live within our means and put 10 per cent in the bank. It's an old fable which begins, "Once upon a time..."

Outcry At Bolles Death

WASHINGTON — The loudest cries of outrage over the brutal murder of Don Bolles, investigative reporter for the Arizona Republic, have come from members of the Arizona political establishment.

Since his death last month, the state legislature has whittled away at the wrongs he had exposed, including the Funk-Emprise dog racing monopoly, and has come up with $100,000 for the murder investigation.

Yet during all the years Bolles was warning how hoodlums were robbing the taxpayers, Arizona officials squirmed a little but did nothing. Bolles would have condemned the hypocrisy.

We sent one of our own investigative reporters, Larry Kraftowitz, to Phoenix to follow up the stories that Bolles never finished. Kraftowitz learned that Bolles had been in secret contact with a Phoenix businessman, named Fred Porter Jr., who was battling the Funk-Emprise dog racing interests.

In an earlier column, we reported that the two had worked together closely right up to the day Bolles was blown up in his car. Among the last words he gasped were: "Mafia ... Emprise ... They finally got me."

The frightened Porter sought protection from the Phoenix police who kept him under guard for three days. The same day the guard was withdrawn, Porter was slugged over the head twice with a pipe and left for dead on the ground.

Retracing Bolles' steps, Kraftowitz also learned that the Arizona Republic reporter was working on another story. Six days before he climbed into his bomb-rigged car, Bolles contacted Phillip E. Jones, who had helped to prepare a legislative staff report on land fraud.

We can now publish the story that Bolles probably would have uncovered if he had lived. We have learned that the land fraud report was mysteriously torn up. The research division, which drafted the report, was also disbanded as part of a staff reorganization. Several of the staff members were fired.

Some powerful legislators apparently were unhappy over their investigative zeal. The suppressed report, according to sources who saw it before it was destroyed, accused certain regulatory agencies of failing to cooperate with land fraud investigations. The report also hinted that high state officials were aware of the land frauds but were treating them with massive indifference.

Two watered-down reports eventually were published. But the staff members who worked on them were harassed. When portions of the second report leaked to the press, the staff man who wrote it, Leon Beene, was chewed out by his supervisor, Harry Gutterman. At the time, Gutterman reported to the legislative leadership.

Tersely, Gutterman warned Beene never to make a move without first consulting him. Beene continued to meet secretly with police investigators, nevertheless, warning that he'd be fired if caught.

Footnote: Beene confirmed he had drafted the reports on land fraud but refused to discuss his reprimand. Gutterman had no comment.

CREeping CORRUPTION: The corporations that do business in Washington seldom resort to anything so gross as bribing public officials. Rather, the corporate pleaders engage in creeping corruption so gentle that the officials often don't recognize that they have been corrupted.

By a series of small favors, the influential artists seek to instill in the officials a feeling of personal obligation. The favor range from theater tickets and imported liquors to French perfumes and free transportation. It is the accumulation, rather than any single gift, that gradually obligates the courted officials.

Throughout the process, the official often persuade themselves that there is no connection between the favors they receive and the decisions they make. But they wind up losing their sense of dedication to the public and feeling a greater loyalty to their new corporate friends.

Aerojet-General, for example, wanted to sell about $2 million worth of rocket equipment to a Japanese firm. This required an export license from the State Department, which consulted the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for advice on the Aerojet contract.

One of NASA's deputy assistant administrators, Steve Doyle, played an important role in providing the State Department with the answers about Aerojet. Suddenly, the corporation sought out an befriended this obscure official.

Doyle was wined and dined by Aerojet executives. One executive, Tony Piantes took Doyle and his wife to dinner and theater. Aerojet also offered Doyle some scarce Washington Redskins football tickets and invited him to a corporate Christmas party.

Footnote: Doyle acknowledged that he had been a luncheon and dinner guest of Aerojet. He was invited to the football game, he said, but did not attend. Doyle conceded that he had "participated" in reviewing cases involving Aerojet for the State Department. But both Doyle and Piantes strongly denied any wrongdoing intent.

Iran Diary Divulges Up-Close Glimpses Of Hollywood Headliners Among the Royalty

United Feature Syndicate's Marian Christy was among 150 VIP's on Iranian Ambassador Ardeshir Zahedi's guest list for the inaugural flight of Iran Air's 747 to Tehran.

So was Liz Taylor, Zahedi's current romance, and the week-long trip's stellar light. But Zahedi stayed in Washington. He said his heavy Washington schedule demanded he cancel, but the shah's rumored displeasure with Zahedi's skyrocketing playboy image may have been the real cause of his cancellation.

Zahedi's chief rival for the public eye is Argentine Ambassador Alejandro Orfila, head of the Organization of American States, who caught headlines in February when he escorted Jackie Onassis to a $3,000-per-box event at Washington's Kennedy Center. Zahedi had no date that night and the flight was to have been his turn to bask in the celebrity sun. Ms. Christy kept a diary, excerpted here:

By MARIAN CHRISTY
DAY ONE: Passengers are guzzling Dom Perignon and nibbling caviar. A Hollywood mob scene. Photographers are shoving, straining, pushing, clicking.

Movie queen Elizabeth Taylor in an all-wrong, bosom-revealing striped dress, casts love-glances at her man-of-the-hour, Iranian Ambassador Ardeshir Zahedi, 47.

They're a mesh of Movies and Money and the photographers are having a heyday. Liz and Zahedi are basking in the glare of adulation. Although they appear to have eyes only for each other, Zahedi is surreptitiously signaling the next scene.

On the fringe of the crowd appears Cloris Leachman. Suddenly the twosome is a threesome. Click-click. All eyes and all cameras are riveted on the chatty trio. In steps Connie Stevens whose ex-husband, Eddie Fisher, was Liz's fourth husband.

At first no one notices Connie, a brassy blonde in a blue suede Pochonatas outfit with a handkerchief-points hemline. Her agent points her in a strategic direction and now the photographers are click-clicking a foursome: Zahedi and the Hollywood harem.

Liz greets Connie warmly. Zahedi moves forward as if to kiss Connie on each cheek. Impossible: oversized sunglasses sit on her cheeks. One lens has her name etched in diamonds at the very bottom.

Passengers absorbing the picture-taking ceremony include Washington socialite Page Lee Hufty, a Town and Country magazine covergirl said to be Zahedi's "sometime girl friend." Her father is oil-rich. She is supposed to have received two Arabian horses from Jordan's King Hussein, known to admire her blondness, her height and her confidence.

"Oh," she says to her mother, with a sigh, "Ardeshir is such a character with Liz."

Some are calling Zahedi's fling with Liz a "publicity stunt." Some say he is in love.

One friend says they may never see each other again. So that the current Hollywood connection doesn't fade her, Zahedi has extended his fabled generosity to Hufty; he has arranged an extended trip to several Mideast countries for Hufty and her parents.

After a million click-clicks, Lizzie and Zahedi disappear into the plane—she with Scotch on-the-rocks in hand. Zahedi is showing her the "private" area for her entourage; a nutritionist listed only as Dr. Scornone, a bodyguard; her hairdresser and make-up man who teases her jet locks unmercifully and exaggerates her eyebrows with a black pencil. The plane eventually is boarded by champagne-happy passengers and it zooms toward the skies.

During the flight Liz changes into a caftan, changes her make-up (one male passenger who watched the two-hour process described it as "absolutely necessary" because without "the paint Liz is just Diamond Lil.")

When Liz-and-company finally emerge from the cosmetic caper, they edge toward the upstairs lounge. It's crowded. Liz, who's not a mixer, says she needs peace and quiet. She goes back to her seat, applies more make-up.

DAY TWO: Arrival at Mehrabad Airport, Tehran, is geared around Liz, again wearing the black-and-white striped dress to greet the Iranian press. They stampede to get her pictures. Liz's legion of bodyguards, now said to be a blur of the shah's Secret Police and Zahedi's staff, whisk her off into an air-conditioned Mercedes-Benz — one of a fleet said to be at Zahedi's disposal. Other passengers board buses to see more of the land billed as "sunshine, poetry and roses."

Tehran traffic is an uncontrolled maze of undisciplined drivers. A woman on the bus bursts into a chorus of "God Bless America." Streets are filled with Iranian women in depressing black veils and strutting men in suits cut the French way to emphasize the male physique. Even in the area of fashion, chauvinism prevails.

Next scene: Niavaran Palace, summer home of the shah and empress. The shah is "away on business" and the empress is "prevalued upon" to greet passengers at a private reception to take place in one hour. Guests are "commanded" to the palace by a voice on the telephone.

Liz-and-entourage, Connie Stevens-and-entourage, Cloris Leachman and husband George Englund, assemble in the vast manicured storybook

Liz, pressed into first play by her agents, must be last to meet the empress. She can't take her "purple" eyes off Farah Diba, a real-life star who is moving from person-to-person, a constant half-smile gardens of the palace, a sprawling colossus studded with pools and pavilions and small man-made forests.

Security defies imagination. The monarch's plainclothesmen lurk behind trees, columns, furniture.

Liz, the star, is to be the first to meet Her Majesty, the empress, a star of a different order.

Liz is wearing a black dress, lots of diamond-encrusted gold. But here she's just one of the crowd being served drinks and hors d'oeuvres from gold trays carried by waiters wearing tuxedos.

A hush falls on the crowd. Empress Farah Diba, wearing an Iranian-designed brocade jacket over a beige midi dress, appears.

The Bible says that the first shall be last and the last shall be first. The empress begins her greeting at the end of the receiving line.

Life

on her lips, her aura regal, her presence electric.

At last the two queens meet and Liz is clearly upstaged. The queen is lean and elegant. Liz is short and stocky. The queen has jewels but isn't wearing any. Liz sparkles. The queen's hair is soft and blown-dry. Liz's black hair is teased and sprayed and untouchable.

Meanwhile the empress's oldest daughter, Princess Farahnaz, 12, sticks her head out of an upstairs palace window and aims a long-range camera lens at Mama and Liz who are sipping a cold drink.

A guard motions to the governess, who tugs the princess back into the palace.

Woodstock Artist's Work on Display at Albany

ALBANY—Assemblyman Maurice D. Hinchey announced that a Bicentennial hanging created by Natalie Vermann of Woodstock will be on display in the Legislative Office Building lobby through July 9.

The eight by 10 foot hanging shows 20 New York State historical events or scenes of interest.

"Essentially," said Ms. Vermann, "I feel that each of us, in our every thought and deed, contributes to the history and the well-being of the state, the nation, the planet, and, of course, each other. The people, places and events that I have chosen to depict in this hanging are only a little more obvious in their contribution, and therefore, historically noteworthy."

Scenes on the hanging show native Americans, Peter Stuyvesant, the Wiltwyck Settlement, New York's first capital, the state seal, Wall Street, Harriet Tubman and the underground railroad, the Erie Canal, Franklin Roosevelt, Robert Fulton's "Clermont", Dame Liberty, Henry Hudson, Susan B. Anthony, the Capital Building, DeWitt Clinton, Niagara Falls, George DeWitt, the U.N. Building, New York State maps, Alfred E. Smith, and the Empire State Building.

The Legislative Office Building is open weekdays from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., and was open to visitors during the Capital region's July 4 celebration.

DEAR ABBY

First Things First: Is 'Absent Groom' Dead?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was to have been married in the spring, but two weeks before the wedding, the groom took a charter flight to Tucson and did not return.

The authorities and the FAA told us that his plane crashed in Mexico and that he is dead. We have had eight different versions of the plane crash, but as yet, no body was found, and there is no proof that he is dead.

When a wedding is canceled, I know that the bride should return the wedding gifts, but what should we do in a case like this? If it turns out that he is still alive, I am sure she will want to marry him.

Does she have to return the shower gifts, too? PUZZLED. DEAR PUZZLED: If your daughter's fiancé's plane crashed and he died in the wreckage, there should have been a body identified as his.

Eight different versions of the plane crash? No body? You may need a lawyer to investigate this "crash." First determine whether the absent groom is in fact dead—then worry about the disposition of wedding and shower gifts.

DEAR ABBY: Tell INSULTED not to fret too much about the plumber's wife who doubles as her husband's bookkeeper and who wrote at the bottom of an overdue bill: "Jim doesn't expect to take this out in trade, so please remit."

I have it on good authority that that's the way she pays her dentist's bill. I should know. I'm her dentist.— PAID IN FULL.

DEAR PAID: A man who makes his living from open mouths should have enough sense to keep his shut.

DEAR ABBY: Saw the letter from the woman who had sent thousands of cards to people and was complaining because few people thanked her. She could be a woman I know. She sends me cards for Christmas, Easter, New Year's, St. Patrick's Day, April Fools Day, May Day, Fourth of July, Halloween, my anniversary and birthday, and even Mother's Day! Once I sent her a note to thank her, and she sent me a card to thank me for thanking her!

Then I tried calling her instead, and she kept me on the phone for an hour listening to her health problems and complaints because no one thanks her for her cards. (I can see why they don't.)

She called and asked me for my son's address so she could send cards to him and his wife. They live out of town, she hasn't seen him for six years and she's never met his wife. I may be boorish, but I'm not going to write to thank someone for wishing me a "bang-up Fourth of July," or a "ghoulish Halloween."

Oh, yes, I also received a "farewell" card when I went on my vacation last year and a "welcome home" card when I returned.

Sign me...—"RATHER BE IGNORED."

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope.

Area Ballet Students Invited To Audition for 'Coppelia'

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Area ballet students will have one more opportunity to audition for the New York City Ballet performances at Saratoga Performing Arts Center this summer. Auditions for the ballet "Coppelia," which had its world premiere at Saratoga in 1974, will be held Tuesday, July 6, 11 a.m. David Richardson of the New York City Ballet Company will again conduct the auditions in the main rehearsal hall of the amphitheater.

Children must be between nine and 12 years of age and not more than five feet tall. They must also have had at least two years of ballet training.

Performances of "Coppelia" will be July 22, 24, 28 and 30.

In a new dimension this summer, the center has added an International Dance Film series at the Fileene Center on the Skidmore College Campus. The series of films are from the United States, the USSR, Canada, England, Belgium, France, and will continue each night, 8 p.m., through July 12. The new series is the first of its kind to be presented as a part of the Saratoga Festival. It is being underwritten and operated by the Briensky Ballet Center which makes its summer home in Saratoga.

Ragtime Concert Scheduled For Tuesday Night at New Paltz

NEW PALTZ—A program of Scott Joplin Rags will open a Tuesday night concert series presented by the music department of SUNY at New Paltz, July 6, 8 p.m. at the McKenna Theatre. This ragtime concert features members of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic led by Peter Alexander, assistant professor of music at the college.

America and the world went rag crazy during the first two decades of this century. Most rags were composed for piano but Joplin, at the urging of his publisher, arranged many of his most popular rags for park bands. The collection of these rags was nick-named the Red Back Book and was lost when the ragtime faded in popularity. The collection was recently rediscovered after more than 50 years of obscurity and will provide the music for the Tuesday night concert.

Yankees Roll Past Indians, 4-3

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Willie Randolph singled home two runs to highlight a three-run second inning and Dock Ellis chalked up his fifth straight victory Sunday night as the New York Yankees scored a 4-3 decision over the Cleveland Indians.

The victory gave the Yankees a 25-9 road record and a nine-game bulge over the second-place Indians in the Eastern Division of the American League. The Yankees sent Ellis off to 3-0 lead in the second off starter and loser Jackie Brown who was seeking his eighth victory of the season. After one out Graig Nettles and Oscar Gamble singled, with both runners moving up on an infield out. Randolph then sliced a single down the right field line, stole second and scored on Jim Mason's base hit to right.

Thurman Munson doubled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Nettles in the sixth while the Indians got their runs on a solo homer by George Hendrick in the second and a pair of homers Rico Carty. It was the 15th of the season for Hendrick and Carty's seventh. Ellis, who scattered seven hits and is now 9-4 for the year, has won more games than he did all last season with Pittsburgh when he posted an 8-9 mark. Sparky Lyle replaced Ellis after Carty's second homer and closed out the game.

Red Sox 3, Brewers 1
MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Rick Wise, who pitched a one-hitter in his last start, fired a four-hitter and Cecil Cooper, batting .520 against Milwaukee, hit a two-run homer Sunday to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 triumph over the Brewers.

Wise, raising his record to 7-5, allowed three hits in the first two innings then retired the Brewers in order, except for a walk to Tim Johnson with one out in the fifth and a single by Johnson leading off the eighth. Wise walked three and struck out two. It marked the fourth game this year that he has allowed less than five hits in a complete game victory.

Cooper, who has had 13 hits in 25 at bats against the Brewers, walked and scored Boston's first run in the first inning on Fred Lynn's double, singled in the third and cracked a two-run-homer in the fifth.

Pete Broberg allowed just five hits for Milwaukee but had to settle for his seventh loss in eight decisions.

Twins, Angels Split
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Rod Carew hit an eighth inning grand slam homer to offset an earlier grand slam by California's Ron Jackson Sunday and give the Minnesota Twins a 9-5 victory over the Angels for a split of their doubleheader.

Jackson drove in four runs, three of them on a homer, to lead the Angels to a 5-3 triumph in the opener.

In the nightcap, loser Dick Drago loaded the bases on two hit batsmen and a walk in the eighth and reliever Sid Monge got a forceout at the plate before giving up the homer to Carew.

Twins' starter Pete Redfern had a no-hitter until the seventh when Mario Guerrero led off with a single. Redfern then walked the bases loaded before giving way to Vic Albury, who walked in a run. Bill Campbell then took over and gave up a grand slam to Jackson which tied the score at 5-5. Campbell did not allow a hit after giving up the homer to notch his ninth win in 11 decisions.

Rangers, White Sox Split
CHICAGO (UPI) — Bill Fahey's two-run single in the eighth inning gave the Texas Rangers a 3-2 victory in the nightcap Sunday after the Chicago White Sox won the opener 7-6 in 12 innings on Jorge Orta's run-scoring single.

Fahey's hit off loser Chris Knapp, making only his second major league start, staked the Rangers to a 3-0 lead, but Chicago rallied for two runs in the eighth and reliever Joe Hoerner had to pitch out of a jam to save Steve Hargan's third win five decisions.

Brian Downing led off the Chicago eighth with a double and scored on a single by Chet Lemon. Lemon took second on a wild pitch by Hargan and scored on a single by Orta, bringing on Hoerner. Hoerner earned his sixth save by getting Pat Kelly to fly out and striking out Bucky Dent to end the threat.

In the opener, the White Sox, who tied the game with two out in the ninth on Kevin Bell's run-scoring infield hit, won the game in the 12th with the aid of an error by shortstop Toby Harrah. Bill Stein opened the 12th with a double and, out out later, Dent grounded to short and was safe when Harrah booted the ball. Stein was out at home when Lemon hit into a fielder's choice but Orta followed with his game-winning hit.

Jim Sundberg's double in the eighth off winner Dave Hamilton gave the Rangers a 6-5 lead after they trailed 3-0 early in the game.

White Sox pitcher Clay Carroll suffered a fracture of the fifth metacarpal on his right hand in an accident at home Saturday night and was placed on the 21-day disabled list Sunday.

Chicago is purchasing the contract of right-handed pitcher John (Blue Moon) Odum from their Triple-A affiliate at Iowa of the American Association. Odum beat Omaha 4-0 Saturday night for his third successive victory. He was obtained by the White Sox from the Atlanta Braves on June 15 in exchange for catcher Pete Varney.

A's 6, Royals 0
KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Mike Norris, attempting to come back from arm surgery that sidelined him most of last year, pitched a three-hitter Sunday to lead the Oakland A's to a 6-0 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

The 21-year-old Norris, who underwent surgery last May to remove bone chips in his pitching elbow and did not return until late September, earned his second win of the season and second career shutout by limiting Kansas City, which entered the game with a major league-leading .286 batting average, to just a double and two singles. Norris struck out three and walked two.

Bert Campaneris gave Oakland a 1-0 lead in the third inning with a single which scored Bill North, who had walked and stolen second.

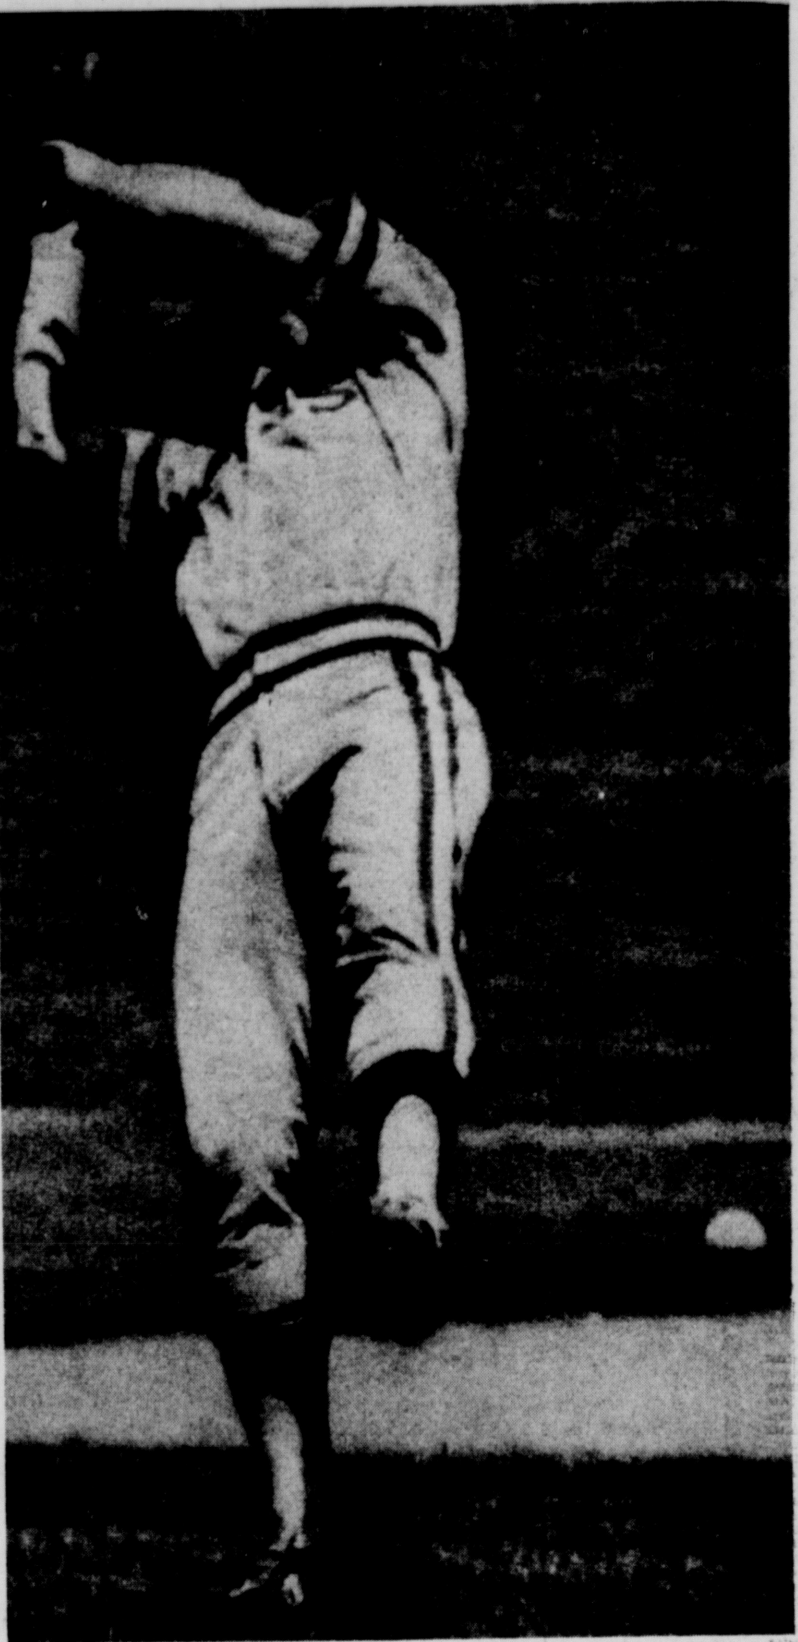

Oakland erupted for five more runs in the fifth against starter and loser Al Fitzmorris, now 9-5. Joe Rudi's two-run double highlighted the rally. Billy Williams, Larry Haney and North added run-scoring singles.

Orioles 7, Tigers 4
DETROIT (UPI) — Ken Singleton, hitting only .177 right-handed, coaxed a bases loaded walk from lefty reliever John Hiller with one out in the eighth inning Sunday to force in the deciding run and lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Hiller took a one run lead into the eighth but Mark Belanger singled and stole second before Bob Grich walked and Reggie Jackson singled to tie the score at 4-4. Hiller struck out Andres Mora but pinch hitter Lee May was walked intentionally to load the bases before Singleton, who had doubled home a run hitting left-handed off Frank MacCormack in the second inning, walked to force in Grich.

Mora doubled home a pair of insurance runs in the ninth inning. Baltimore also scored twice in the fourth, one on a single by Tony Muser in the second on an error by shortstop Tom Verzyer.

Wayne Garland went the distance on a seven-hitter and struck out five to win his ninth game in 10 decisions while Hiller suffered his fourth loss in 10 decisions. Two errors by Muser in the first inning gave the Tigers two runs and the Detroit added two more in the fifth inning when Dan Meyer hit his first of the season after Ron LeFlore singled.

Hill Takes Top Prize In Milwaukee Tourney

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Dave Hill contributed some fireworks of his own to the Bicentennial celebration Sunday as he fired a three-under-par 69 to win the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open by three strokes over hard-charging Johnny Jacobs.

Hill and the other pros pummeled par on the rolling 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course and he finished 18-under to win the $26,000 first prize. It was his 13th victory since joining the tour in 1959.

Hill started the day 15-under-par with a four shot lead over Homero Blancas and five shots over Jacobs, Ed Sneed and Fuzzy Zoeller. Hill and Jacobs played in the same threesome and Jacobs made a run at Hill as he birdied the last three holes.

But Hill's advantage was too great and he cast out any doubt of whom the winner would be when he also birdied the final hole.

Sneed shot a two-under-par 69 and tied for third with Dave Eichelberger at 12 under. Eichelberger tied the course record in the final round as he shot a nine-under-par 63 to vault himself among the leaders.

Blancas shot one-over-par 73 and tied for fifth with Bob E. Smith while Zoeller quickly dropped as he shot a five-over-par 41 on the front nine and finished with a seven-over 79.

Although the big names on the pro tour once again bypassed the ninth annual GMO because the British Open is next week, the field blasted par as 45 golfers finished below par in the tournament and nine golfers tied it.

Hill was the biggest par-buster and carried a five shot lead into the final day. Despite his lead, he said he was worried that he could lose the tournament.

"It was sort of a tough day," said Hill. He played with Sneed and Jacobs and both made short but unsuccessful runs at him.

"I wasn't worried about Johnny, I was worried about Ed because he was swinging a beautiful club," said Hill.

But it was Jacobs, a little known tour veteran, who made the biggest run as he birdied the last three holes. However, Jacobs said he wasn't playing to catch Hill, but to make sure he finished ahead of Sneed.

"I knew what the difference was between second place and third place," said Jacobs. "I picked up $14,820."

Eichelberger and Sneed each won $7,670.

Hill had two birdies on the first nine, but had a bogey on No. 10. He was worried that his game might be slipping and said his game turned around on No. 12 when he made a birdie and Jacobs only made par.

He bogeyed 13, but came back with another birdie on 14 and said he felt then that it was all over.

Hill has been on the tour since 1959 and he says winning is no longer the most important thing in his life.

"Winning is fun. But if you don't win, it's no big deal. And if you do win, who is really going to care in 20 years?" said Hill.

"The fun of it is playing the game. It's a trying game that tests your nerves and patience."

Hill said playing in the final round was "not as much fun" as the first three days because of the pressure from Jacobs and Sneed, although the calm and cool Hill didn't seem rattled at all.

Jacobs complimented Hill for not playing conservatively despite his big lead.

"Dave Hill is a hell of a player. He never played safe once," said Jacobs.

Hunt Drives McLaren To Grand Prix Win

LE CASTELLET, France (UPI) — James Hunt of Britain picked up his first official Formula One win this season Sunday, driving his red and white Marlboro McLaren to victory in the 62nd French Grand Prix.

He covered 195.99 miles on southern France's twisting mountaintop Paul Ricard race-track in one hour, 40 minutes, 58.80 seconds.

The dark green, six-wheeled Tyrrell of Frenchman Patrick Depailler was second and in a late shuffle John Watson of Ireland brought his Penske in third. But Watson was disqualified by race organizers afterwards and Brazilian Carlos Pace, who drove a Brabham, moved into third place.

The race wasn't going in Hunt's favor at its start. Austrian world driving champion Niki Lauda neutralized Hunt's pole position advantage in the first lap by jumping into the lead in his sleek red Ferrari.

For a short time Lauda continued to push distance between himself and the rest of the pack on this pine-covered hilltop when his engine blew up.

Then, with Hunt in the lead, Lauda's teammate Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland put on a furious chase to catch the fast Briton. But as the race neared the end of its first-third, Regazzoni spun into a guard rail and with the Ferraris out there was no challenger left to take on the Marlboro McLaren.

After taking the first six Formula One races this season, it was the second straight loss for the Ferraris.

The best race on the track Sunday was for third through sixth places. Jody Scheckter of South Africa in the number two Tyrrell and Ronnie Peterson of Sweden in a March slugged it out with Watson and Pace until the closing minutes.

Peterson, in third place with two laps to go, took a sudden dive from third to 19th position after he ran his car out of gas. Scheckter's furious battle with Peterson ended shortly before when a valve snapped in his engine.

The South African vainly limped on as Watson, American Mario Andretti in a Lotus and Price steadily crept up on him for five laps until they overtook him. Andretti finished fifth with Scheckter sixth.

Mets' Streak Stops at 10 As Cubs Rally for Split

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pitcher Ray Burris' sacrifice bunt turned into a double error which allowed two runs to score in the seventh inning Sunday, enabling the Chicago Cubs to snap a nine-game losing streak and end the New York Mets' 10-game winning streak with a 4-2 victory in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

The Mets established their longest winning streak since 1972 by winning the opener 9-4 as Mike Phillips, Bud Harrelson and relief pitcher Skip Lockwood each drove in a pair of runs.

The Cubs led 2-1 on Mick Kelleher's two-run single in the fourth inning when loser Mickey Lolich issued a lead off walk to Kelleher in the seventh inning. Burris then laid down a sacrifice bunt and Lolich fielded the ball and threw it over the head of first baseman Ed Kranepool. When Kelleher attempted to score, right fielder Dave Kingman picked up the overthrow and threw past catcher Jerry Grote into the Chicago dugout allowing both runners to score.

The Mets had their best threat in the seventh when Mike Vail and Bruce Boicclair stung Burris for consecutive bunt singles. Mike Phillips then a potential double play grounder to short, but shortstop Dave Rosello booted the ball allowing one run to score. Burris, however, went on to record his first complete game in 19 starts and post his fourth win in 14 decisions.

In the opener, the Mets took advantage of only six hits to tag Bill Bonham with his sixth loss in 12 decisions. Craig Swan, with relief help from Lockwood, won his fifth game against seven losses. Lockwood, in addition to hitting a two-run double in a four-run eighth inning, pitched three innings of hitless relief to gain his ninth save.

Rick Monday accounted for two of the Cubs' runs with his 14th homer of the season in the fifth inning.

Phillies, Pirates Split
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Robertson's two-run triple capped a six-run seventh inning and Bruce Kison and Bob Moose combined on a five-hitter to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-1 triumph in the nightcap Sunday after the Philadelphia Phillies won the first game, 10-5.

Tim McCarver's apparent grand slam homer, which became a three-run single when he passed a baserunner, highlighted a four-run second inning for the Phillies in their opening game triumph.

Every starting Pirate committed a hit in the second game and four besides Robertson had one RBI each, but Al Oliver, the league's leading hitter, was only 1-for-7 on the day after collecting eight hits in his previous nine at-bats.

Kison, 7-4, gave up two hits and blanked the Phillies over the first seven innings and Moose gave up the lone run in the ninth when the Phillies put together three straight singles after two were out. Jim Kaat, 8-3, was tagged with his first loss since May 12, although the six-run Pirate spurt came off reliever Gene Garber.

In the first game, McCarver hit what appeared to be a grand slam homer in the fourth but was called out when he passed baserunner Garry Maddox between first and second.

Winner Steve Carlton, 8-3, gave up six hits and five runs before he was relieved by Ron Reed after 6 2-3 innings. The loser was Larry Demery, 5-2, the first of four Pirate pitchers.

Tommy Helms pinch-hit a two-run homer, and Bill Robinson added a solo shot for the Pirates.

Padres 5, Dodgers 2
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dave Winfield capped a three-run third inning with a solo homer Sunday and Randy Jones went on to post his 15th win of the season in pitching the San Diego Padres to a 5-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Jones, who has lost only three games, scattered nine hits in beating the Dodgers for the second time and tied the National League record for most wins before the All-Star break. Jones struck out only one but did not walk a batter in besting Tommy John, who evened his record at 5-5.

Enzo Hernandez singled to left to open the third and Ted Kubiak sacrificed before Luis Melendez singled to right to score Hernandez. Right fielder Reggie Smith threw wildly to home trying to get Hernandez with Melendez taking third and John then uncorked a wild pitch to score Melendez. Winfield followed with his 12th homer.

The Padres added a run in the fifth inning on Mike Ivie's run-scoring single and Winfield doubled home another run in the ninth.

The Dodgers scored in the fourth of a run-scoring double by Bill Buckner and added a run in the ninth on a run-scoring single by Bill Russell.

Reds 7, Astros 2
CINCINNATI (UPI) — Johnny Bench hit a tie breaking two-run single in the fifth inning and George Foster added a three run homer, his fourth hit of the game, in the eighth Sunday to power the Cincinnati Reds to 7-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

Yarborough Captures Firecracker

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Cale Yarborough, a 37-year-old Timmonsville, S.C., veteran, broke his streak of "bad luck" Sunday to win the $170,000 Firecracker 400 stock car race going away before a holiday crowd of 70,000.

Yarborough, who started in the second position in the starting grid, traded the lead several times during the first part of the race with Bobby Allison, a Chevrolet driver from Hueytown, Ala. But Yarborough's Chevrolet finally broke away from Allison and four-time Firecracker winner David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., on the 146th lap. His average speed was 160.966 miles per hour.

Yarborough beat the second place Pearson by eight seconds. Allison finished third and A.J. Foyt of Houston was fourth. Coo Coo Marlin of Columbia, Tenn., was fifth.

"I'm as hot as a firecracker and mighty tired," said the blond Yarborough in victory lane.

"My crew sure did a lot to keep me in it," he added. "Everything worked all the way. I knew that if I could get Pearson and Allison together, I might have been able to get away and that's what happened."

Yarborough, who is a county commissioner in South Carolina, Allison and Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., moved out in front in the early stages of the race, trading the lead 11 times among themselves during the first 20 laps.

On the second turn of the 32nd lap, Baker, driving a Ford, blew his engine, spun out and sped off onto the track. Eight cars behind him skidded off the track and two drivers were injured in the pileup.

Sporting Goods Boom Hits Home

Freeman Staff

KINGSTON—The sporting goods store, once the supplier to a relatively small number of serious, young athletic minded men, has now become the shopping center for even the most casual sportsman, woman or child.

The boom in American sport and sports equipment has crossed age, sex and class distinctions to produce one of the largest and most sophisticated consumer markets in the country.

The largest customer block in the sporting goods industry, according to Kingston merchants, is the elementary through high school age student in addition to playing for school teams, many of these youngsters participate in the scores of leagues offered in almost all team sports.

An advertisement by one Hudson Valley store "Specializing in team outfitting—Complete line of trophies," is not unusual.

"Only in the last few years have the kids gotten so involved in uniforms and looking like a team," observes Frank Cohen, proprietor of Frank's Ski and Sports Shop on North Front Street. Youngsters today also seem intent on outfitting themselves with the most up-to-date and reliable equipment possible he says.

"Kids are very well versed in new equipment, they know the products," says Cohen.

The younger athletes are not the only ones concerned with quality.

"People in general are looking for the best brands and not just buying a department store name," says John Lang of the Sears-Roebuck sporting goods department in Kingston Plaza. Dan Potter of Potter Brothers, Kingston, agrees, "people want only the top name."

Even in sports as casual as bicycling or jogging, enthusiasts are turning out in the best money can buy. Fashion has also become a major factor to those who take their exercise seriously.

"People just don't buy blue or gray sweats anymore, they want bright colors and stripes," says Lang.

Most sports authorities agree that this is a healthy trend. As Mike Spada, who, with cousin Mike R. Spada, operates Spada's Sports Shop on Broadway, affirms "the latest is the safest."

"The schools have become more conscious of safety. Teaching the kids to use the best equipment for them is part of education," says Pete Kramer, owner of Kaye Sports on Wall Street.

Not prone to lag behind, women of all ages are just as much a part of the sports buying public as the male of the species.

"The girls are into everything. Because the schools have opened the athletic programs to them they are now participating," says Kramer.

"I never thought I would see the day when a young lady would come in here, pick up a mitt and give it a good slam," relates Frank Cohen.

Spada has found what he considers to be an astonishing increase of "least 20 per cent" in women applying for hunting and fishing licenses through his store.

Most of the sporting goods merchants agreed with Spada who feels today's woman "is going out and participating right along with her man."

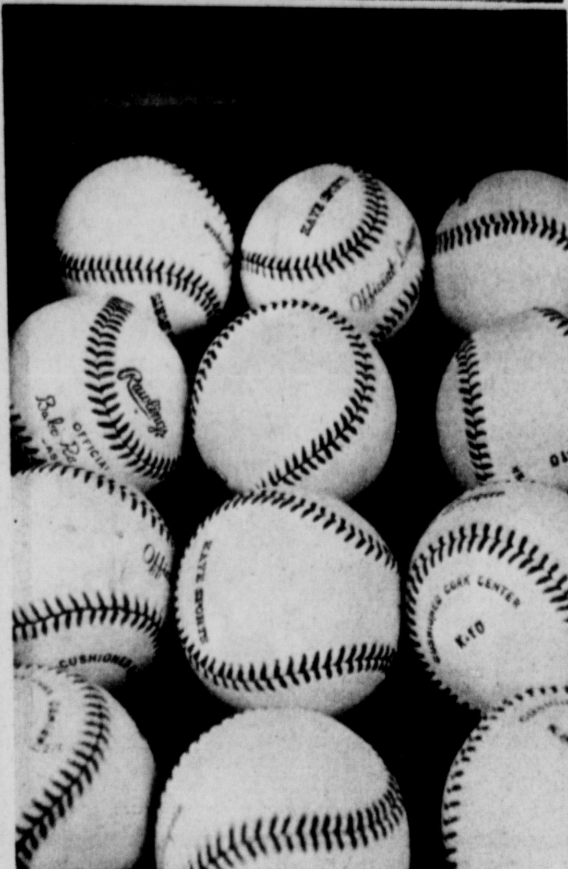

Manufacturers have been quick in picking up on the emerging women's market. Companies that did little more than offer powder blue golf bags for the ladies now carry everything from entire lines of sporting shoes for women to special chest protectors for female catchers.

Sporting goods store owners in Kingston also report a significant rise in the number of people who take up new sports in middle age. Cohen credits slow pitch softball with bringing "the 40 and 50 year olds back into athletics."

Equipment for camping, boating, fishing, track, tennis and virtually all the popular team sports are being purchased by people who have never taken part in the activity or have seen a good many years since the last time they have. "More people are involved in more sports than ever before," Cohen sums up.

Unlike other luxury industries that have experienced hard times in recent economic lulls, the sporting goods business has remained stable and in most places has grown.

Although few merchants would go quite as far as Dan Potter, who believes "recreation is at the top of people's list, second only to eating," nobody is complaining of a depressed market.

Redman Strives for Double In Watkins Glen Events

NEW YORK (UPI) — Britain's Brian Redman strives for a double this weekend when he appears in the beefed-up Formula 5000 series and the Six Hours of Endurance race at the upstate New York Watkins Glen Grand Prix motor course.

Redman's first effort is on Saturday with a BMW team that trails the Porsche factory by four points in the race for the prestigious manufacturers' championship. The winning team gets 20 points in the standings.

On Sunday, Redman guns for his second straight F-5000 victory at the Glen. The Briton is defending champion in the series, which he has won the last two years.

Two other events are on tap at the 3.77-mile circuit — a Trans-Am race which will run in conjunction with the Six Hours and the Robert Bosch Gold Cup event on Sunday. George Follmer, a former CanAm champion, makes his debut in the open wheel Super Vee series.

The Formula 5000 features the series' largest field of the year, with at least four new entries, including Formula One Grand Prix driver Brett Lunger of Wilmington, Del. Another possible entry is Pocono 500 mile winner Al Unser.

Indianapolis 500 Rookie of the Year Vern Schuppan will drive Dan Gurney's Eagle. The New Zealander won the Australian F-5000 championship last winter which earned him a ride in the American series.

The International flavor of the race is apparent with Graham McRae and Warwick Brown from Down Under and Britons Jackie

Oliver and Peter Gethin.

Californian Sam Posey, who may retire from active driving after years as an Indy, F-5000 and sport car wheelman to pursue an art program; Danny Ongais, Alan Jones and Bruce Allison are other drivers entered in the race.

In the Six Hours grind, Porsche and BMW split the first four races in this year's series. Le Mans winner Jacky Ickx and Jochen Mass won the opener for Porsche in Mugello, Italy, on March 21 and repeated in the Vallelunga, Italy, race on April 4. BMW retaliated when John Fitzpatrick and Tom Walkinshaw triumphed at Silverstone, England, on May 9 and the team of Albrecht Krebs-Dieter Quester scored at Nurburgring, Germany, on May 30.

Redman, Fitzpatrick and Walkinshaw are teamed in one of the BMW cars, while Krebs, Dieter and Ronnie Peterson of Sweden group in another BMW. Posey is a backup driver if needed.

The Jacksonville, Fla., tandem of Peter Gregg and Hurley Haywood are in a third BMW. Haywood, incidentally, leads the Trans-Am series with 40 points.

Tom Bagley, a two-time Bosch winner, heads the Gold Cup series with 40 points.

Gregg is the winningest driver on the International Motor Sports Association circuit and his triumphs are equally legendary in the Sports Car Club of America record book. A Harvard grad, Gregg has three victories in the 24 Hours of Daytona and won four Camel GT Challenge titles.

A Stiff Challenge For Olympic Cagers

MONTICELLO (UPI) — The U.S. Olympic basketball team faces what might be its stiffest challenge prior to the Montreal Games when it meets a squad of National Basketball Association players, including Nate Archibald and Spencer Haywood, in a match Wednesday at Kutscher's Country Club.

The Olympians have blitzed through five opponents of a six-game exhibition schedule, posting impressive wins over the Denver Nuggets, the Israeli and Spanish national teams and two pro all star squads. The lone loss came at the hands of the Nuggets.

Joining Archibald, of the Kansas City Kings, and Haywood, of the New York Knicks, will be Steve Mix of the Philadelphia 76ers, Chris Ford of the Detroit Pistons, Jim Clemons of the Cleveland Cavaliers and Kim Hughes and Al Skinner of the New York Nets.

The coach will be Gene Shue of the 76ers.

The Olympians, who are led by college player of the year Scott May of Indiana, Notre Dame All-America forward Adrian Dantley and North Carolina guard Phil Ford, will compete as the top seeded team in the B bracket up in Montreal. Defending gold medalist Russia will be the top seed in the A bracket.

Navy Can Thank Hart

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—The United States Naval Academy can thank Kingston, N.Y., resident Doug Hart for the dramatic improvement in the fortunes of its sailing team this past season.

Thanks to Doug's impressive performances in both dinghy and Laser competition, the varsity sailing team, which began unrated in the fall of 1975, moved up to the No. 3 team in the nation by the end of the recently-concluded spring season.

Hart, the dinghy team captain, earned All-America honors via his selection by the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association of North America. He credits his father David of Kingston for much of his success, noting the experience he gained sailing with his father on the Hudson River in the Flying Dutchman, an Olympic Class sailboat.

Hart has accepted a coaching post with the Naval Academy and is coaching the sailing team at the present in Bermuda. At the end of the summer he will return to the Naval Academy as fall sailing coach for the Plebe dinghy team.

Hart and his teammates captured the first dinghy area elimination in mid-March, then finished sixth in the Boston Dinghy Cup, fourth in the Admiral McClintock Cup, fifth in the Friis Trophy, fourth in the Owens Trophy Cup and second in the American Trophy for the Mid-Atlantic Sailing Association (MAISA) District championship.

Hart stood out in the single-handed competition, capturing first place in the area eliminations in late March and winning out over a field of 14 sailors to win the MAISA single-handed championships two weeks later. It was that victory that earned him his No. 1 rating in the Mid-Atlantic region and the All-America honor.

He also placed second in the national single-handed championships Foster Trophy Regatta and with his teammates, seventh in the Morris Trophy Paired Dinghy Regatta. Those two events marked the first time in five years that the Naval Academy has competed nationally in either the single-handed or paired dinghy categories.

"Just being able to go to the Nationals," said Doug, "to be able to compete there and to do well... we had come close the last two years, but this year we made it and it was terrific!"

Horseshoes: From Folklore to Int'l Status

NEW YORK (UPI) — Created by the Romans perhaps out of boredom, nurtured by the English, and finding new roots in the United States, the game of horseshoes has progressed from folklore to international tournament status.

As the Roman legions spread their iron mantle over

Palestine, Egypt, Spain, France and England, the militia, like countless thousands of G.I.'s that manned lonely outposts in later years, tried to make camp life more interesting.

The shod hooves of the Roman cavalry provided the material for passing the idle hours.

Some say the Greeks predated the Romans in a similar version of the game. As legend has it, one of the events in the early Olympic games was the throwing of a stone discus. The object was a heavy rock with a strap inserted through a hole in the center of the missile. Using the thong as leverage, the contestant heaved the stone at a stake.

Roman soldiers later collected discarded horseshoes, drove stakes into the ground and a new game was born.

At a later date, the English repulsed the Romans, got rid of their architecture, their soldiers and their cavalry. They kept the horseshoes.

Today's game transcends international geographical and age barriers. The oldsters have accumulated the skill and the youngsters have the energy of thoroughbred horses.

An estimated 1,000 worshippers of the 2½-pound projectiles will gather at Bristol Township, Pa., July 30-Aug. 8 for the World Horseshoe Pitching Championships. They are proven marksmen in the junior, intermediate and senior classes.

Talk about Joe DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak, or Danny Villaneuva booting 56 consecutive extra points, Ted Allen holds the record of 72 straight ringers around the stake that stands 40 feet away from the throwing lane.

Several years ago, a pro basketball star and a major leaguer tested their accuracy. In 300 tosses, they managed a total of three ringers.

By comparison, the horseshoe experts average 75 per cent ringers on their throws.

New Post for Colclough

KINGSTON—Southampton College athletic official James Colclough, a former Kingston resident, has been appointed circuit tour director for the American Express Card Challengers Circuit's Eastern Division.

Colclough, 39, is the Director of Athletics and Physical Education at the college and has coached the golf team to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District II championship and the basketball team to the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II semifinals.

He formerly coached at Arlington High School in Poughkeepsie, developing league champions in basketball. In September, he assumes the post of athletic director and basketball coach at C.W. Post College on Long Island.

"I have taught and been involved with tennis for the last eight years," he said, "and I've become interested in its administration. I see the value in tennis for youngsters and I see the possibilities ahead of the game."

The Eastern Division has six tournaments in July and August in New Hampshire, Vermont, New York and New Jersey, and the Western Division competes at the same time in Oregon, the state of Washington and British Columbia, Canada. The national championship is Sept. 10 at Forest Hills.

Colclough, whose family includes his wife Marie and three children, has taught tennis and other physical education classes at Southampton and it is there that his interest in tennis was sparked.

SEPARATION: (Q.) My family had to move here from California and it was a great loss to me. My boy friend is still there. We had been going strong for nearly three years and we love each other more than anything.

We had made so many beautiful plans. Now it seems I'll never see them come true. We still write and phone but it sure isn't the same as being there with him. He still says, "Our plans won't change." But I can see we are already changing.

I don't know whether to forget the past or hold onto my hopes. In two years, when I am 18, he is planning on me moving back out there, and I am too. I need your advice. —Brokenhearted in Oklahoma. (A.) You do not have to abandon your plans. And you don't have to stop living for two years. Keep up communications with your boy friend. If both your feelings are strong enough they will survive.

And if your plans don't survive, you will.

In the meantime, meet and consider other people so you can make an intelligent judgment at 18.

SPARE: (Q.) I am in love with a boy named George. He goes with a girl named Patty. Every time Patty goes on a trip in the summer he comes over and sees me almost every day.

One day he kissed me when I wasn't looking. When he left he called me a "sweet sexy thing."

I want to know how I can get him to go with me all the time, not just when Patty is gone. —Part-Time Girl Friend in Connecticut. (A.) What George is doing is a common practice with lots of boys. He is using you as he would use a spare tire when a good tire goes flat, or as he would use a flashlight during a power failure. When Patty comes home you won't see anything of him.

Your best course is to keep your eyes and your heart open for a boy who wants you to be his main girl friend — not a spare for in emergencies.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

MONDAY, JULY 5

Your birthday today: You work toward a turning point late this year. A long cycle ends, and you enter a transition period where you coast on accumulated momentum. A later conversion promises simple but effective changes, abrupt solutions to many problems. Relationships depend on mutual dedication. Today's natives specialize in writing, mathematics or salesmanship; seldom master all three talents equally.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Avoid the temptation to speculate or buy impulsively. Yesterday's leftovers provoke repercussions that influence opportunities.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Your work schedules are upset by conflicting demands. Stay on the right track, allowing for interruptions, delays and a late change of course. Make no estimates or promises.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Concentrate on transactions that paid off well in the past; troubleshoot, correct errors. Leave finances unfinished so you can add last-minute items later to a final settlement.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Encouragement you had received falters. Now you must produce on your own initiative. Brash action only brings on crisis, especially if money is involved.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You need definite plans to forestall a clash between personal concerns and career or public interests. Organization begins late, when cooperation comes rushing in.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Matters you thought were resolved require new solutions. Be sure you aren't paying for the same thing twice. Expect changes in schedules.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Routines are upset temporarily. Stay out of the center of activity right now. This is an excellent time to drop a bad habit.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Extricate yourself from tiresome duties involving extensive collaboration. Surprises stir generosity; consider the benefits before you offer.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get as far as feasible before conditions shift abruptly. Set up contingency arrangements, but none that appear unduly mysterious to others.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You ask more of friends than they can give. Depend on your own resources for private deals, but leave reserves untouched. Stay within your budget.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Clear up regular chores and open the way for broader maneuvers. You fare best by keeping your intentions quiet, thus being able to change your mind.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Circumstances build so as to derail the most carefully laid plans. Make do with progress already achieved; bring in extra help.

TUESDAY, JULY 6

Your birthday today: Begins a long phase of steady personal development in which you refine your skills by continued practice and leave behind unproductive habits. Regular meditation should be a high point in daily living. Well-established relationships continue, new contacts advance slowly. Today's natives are charming, magnetic, versatile, often gifted in finances.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Take a hard look at the situation, verify doubtful information, then begin planning. New commitments aren't favored yet. Reduced tension lessens energy.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Recent events leave gaps and details still to be determined. Patience! While you're waiting, do your normal quota of work. Take the time to confirm emotional ties. Gemini (May 21-June 20): Before you change anything drastically, slow down a bit and catch up on what's happening. Reasonable diligence brings a day of peaceful progress.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Be grateful for a pause for meditation. Your persuasive powers are enhanced by current influences. Try asking for what you want. Cater to youngsters' needs.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Luck is on your side; request adjustment of recent issues, correct errors, end negotiations. Your sales talent is on the rise; use a subtle soft sell.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Consultations with experts go well. Defer applying what you learn until you work out fuller plans. Take one item at a time according to priority.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Set the record straight; get decisions confirmed and supported. Don't back away when you see the truth. Mild celebration is in order.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now at the peak of your lunar cycle, make use of your personality-plus qualities. Push for a more tenable base of operations. Choose the course that's best for the long haul.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Put the lid on turbulence; smooth any feathers you've ruffled. Build for greater cooperation. If possible, take off from work to attend to public relations.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): In today's relative calm, you have an opportunity to update your records and renew a neglected friendship. You can help someone who faces difficulty.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): In the middle of working to overcome a backlog, you get a sudden inspirational view of a way out and up. You've got a lot going for you. Shake that serious mood!

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Pleasant people nearby have some secrets; listen to an interesting story. Advice that has no immediate application should be carefully noted for future.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

The "Loyal Nine", an offshoot of the Caucus Club and leaders of the Sons of Liberty, were nine men and Sam Adams (not a member) who operated behind the scenes to keep agitation alive in Boston. The World Almanac recalls the nine men were: John Avery, John Smith, Thomas Crafts, Benjamin Edes (printer of the Boston Gazette), Stephen Cleverly, Thomas Chase, Joseph Field, George Trott, and Henry Bass, cousin of Adams.

Hostages Greet Their Families

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — The stubble-chinned hostage put his arm around his wife and said it was like fireworks on the Fourth of July when Israeli commandos attacked the hijacker stronghold at Uganda's Entebbe airport.

Red-eyed and shaky-kneed, he stood in a circle of relatives, who smiled through their tears.

Bused from Ben Gurion Airport to a nearby air force base, the freed hostages ran across the grassy lawn to meet husbands, wives and children who had waited for hours in hot sun.

As the hostages related their tales of the week-long terror, hundreds of Israelis danced the hora, drank brandy and blew triumphant blasts on the traditional ram's horns around them.

"It was the longest week of my life," said Janet Almog, from Madison, Wisc., who was among those held hostage since pro-Palestinian hijackers commandeered an Air France Airbus over Greece June 27.

"We did think we would get out, but not that way," said Mrs. Almog who is now married to an Israeli.

"They (the seven Arab and German hijackers) told us it was all a matter of days, and we had to wait for our government," she said. "And we waited."

George Garfunkel, from Brooklyn, N.Y., who wears the skullcap that identifies Orthodox Jews, said he felt ignored by the U.S. government.

"They finally, finally, came after a week," he said. "Our government did not care about us, so finally the Israeli government did care."

When the Israelis burst in firing their machine guns, "we ran for cover and about 10 minutes later everything was over and we were able to get out to safety," Garfunkel said.

The hostages said they were treated relatively well, but the food was monotonous.

"Rice, rice, rice," said Rina Kipper, 36, a Tel Aviv housewife.

She said the Israelis kept up their morale, "because we were all in it together."

The hostages said some of the men thought about turning on their captors with soda bottles, but they decided against the idea.

"I think it's like a miracle from God," said Arno Helf, an Israeli. "We were playing bridge and most of the people were asleep, then we heard shooting."

"We all fell on the ground. After that we heard someone calling in Hebrew get up and go to the plane. Now we are here and we are very happy."

An old man with a thick, gray beard that reached his chest climbed on the shoulders of a burly soldier.

"The people of Israel live!" he cried.

Italians Seek New Leaders

ROME, Italy (UPI) — The Christian Democrats and the Communists Sunday pondered their choices for the presidencies of Italy's newly elected Senate and Chamber of Deputies.

Leaders of Italy's six non-fascist parties, including the Communists, met Saturday and agreed a Communist should be president of the chamber and a Christian Democrat should lead the senate.

The actual election of the new presidents was scheduled for Monday afternoon, when the two houses of parliament hold their opening meetings. But politicians said Saturday's agreement was tantamount to election and it remained only for the two parties to name their candidates.

Assigning the chamber presidency to the Communists was the ruling Christian Democrats' first concession to the West's largest Communist party since the June 20-21 national elections in which the Communists gained heavily and the Christian Democrats just held their own.

The Communists won 228 chamber seats to 262 for the Christian Democrats. The Socialists won 57 seats.

Politicians and newspapers said Nilde Jotti, vice-president of the previous chamber, was the leading Communist candidate for the presidency. If chosen, she would be the first woman to head a house of the Italian parliament.

Former Premier Amintore Fanfani, a headline anti-Communist, was the Christian Democratic frontrunner for the Senate presidency which he held from 1968 to 1973. But the party's liberal factions were pushing former Interior Minister Paolo Emilio Taviani and politicians said the final choice would reflect whether the national election results have made the Christian Democrats more flexible toward accommodation with the left.

Negotiations to form Italy's 39th government in the 33 years since the fall of Fascism were expected to begin toward the end of this week.

Saturday's meeting was the Communists' first policy-making session with the Christian Democrats since the late Premier Alcide De Gasperi kicked them out of his coalition government in 1947.

Postmaster Is Sought for St. Remy Area

ST. REMY — Anyone interested in operating the St. Remy Post Office should submit bids outlining their plans to the Postmaster, Post Office, 90 Cornell St., Kingston N.Y. at 2:00 p.m. on Tuesday, July 6.

The bidder should be prepared to operate a post office with at least 60 square feet of space at a location within one quarter of a mile from the present post office. Interested bidders may obtain bid packages from the Kingston Postmaster and should acquaint themselves with the General Provisions for Agreement to Conduct Contract Community Post Offices.

250,000 Tour The Barge

NEW YORK — Twenty-seven thousand five hundred and fifty-six people toured the Bicentennial barge during its three-day stay in Kingston last week, Philip C. Johnson, barge director, announced Friday.

As of June 28, a total of 252,356 people have toured the barge since it was launched in Manhattan on June 3, an average of 12,942 persons a day.

Red Hook Schools Seek Citizens' Budget Help

RED HOOK — An advisory committee to help the Red Hook Central School District deal with the budgetary problems facing the district in the light of the assessment ceiling placed on the Red Hook Telephone Company will be appointed by the Board of Education July 6.

The committee, made up of about 12 district residents will review the financial situation and recommend the direction to be taken by the board for the 1976-77 school year.

The school tax roll in the town of Red Hook was reduced from $68,747,934 to $67, 911, 541 because a government-mandated ceiling on assessment increases lowered the tel-phone company's assessment by $836,393.

At the time the budget was first presented, the Board of Education estimated the school tax increase in the town at around 8.6 per cent. With the lowered assessment, the increase is now expected to be closer to 9.7 per cent.

Commando Home Safely

A wounded and tired Israeli commando is helped out of an ambulance for treatment in Tel Aviv Sunday. The soldier was one of the force that rescued 104 hostages held at Uganda's Entebbe airport for nearly a week by pro-Palestinian hijackers. The soldier's face was blocked out of this UPI wirephoto by the Israeli military censor.

Operation Sail A Success

Ford Reviews 'Armada'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Millions lined the shores and streets of New York Sunday for the nation's biggest birthday celebration as an armada of naval ships and sailing vessels from across the world churned through the harbor for a presidential review.

Rockefeller and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger boarded the USS Wainwright, a 547-foot guided missile cruiser and the flagship of history's fourth International Naval Review, shortly after noon.

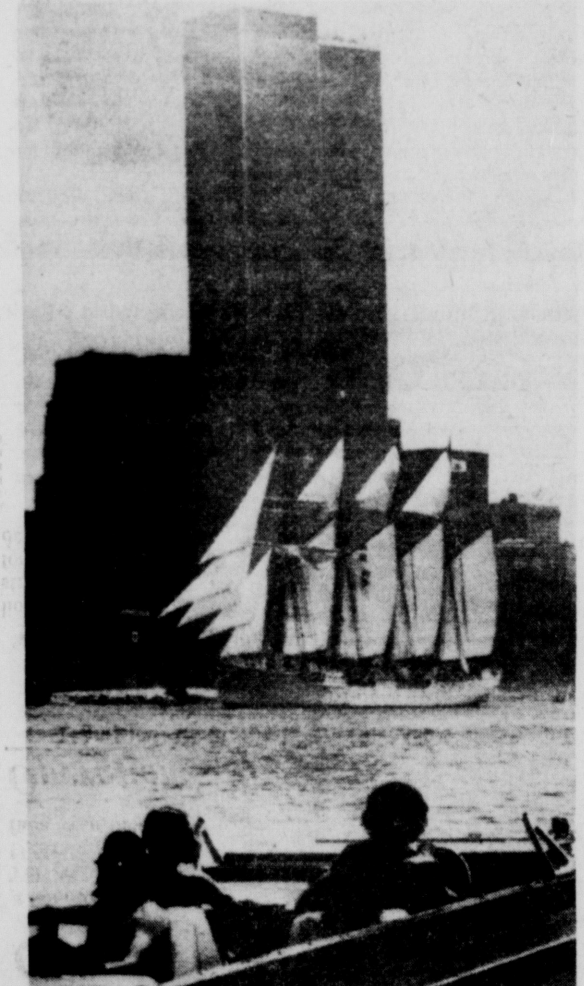

Police refused to estimate the number of shipwatchers along the Manhattan shore, but unofficial sources said it was in the millions. Police did say at least 1 million spectators stood in the midday sun on Brooklyn's Shore Parkway.

Hawkers in cutoff jeans, some wearing sailor caps, put a bicentennial label on everything from T-shirts to binoculars and did a brisk business among spectators.

Huge crowds lined the shores of Manhattan from the Battery to the George Washington Bridge — an 11 mile stretch — to see the tall ships and the display of naval strength they have read about for weeks.

Most were unable to get near the water's edge and settled for little more than a distant glimpse of the masts of England's Great Britain II, Italy's Amerigo Vespucci, Germany's Gorch Fock, or the four-masted, 378-foot Soviet bark, the Kruzenshtern, some of the standouts among the 227 sailing ships.

The more affluent chartered private boats at prices ranging up to $1,000 for the day.

TALL SHIP—The lower Manhattan skyline looms on the horizon Sunday as small craft and one tall ship enter the harbor during Operation Sail.

The Navy Chaplain's Corps began Nov. 28, 1775. Navy regulations ordered that: "The commanders of the ships of the 13 United Colonies are to take care that divine service be performed twice a day on board and a sermon preached on Sundays, unless bad weather or other extraordinary accidents prevent." The World Almanac recalls.

World

By Daring Raid

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Ford sent a letter to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin Sunday expressing the "great satisfaction" of the American people over the Israeli commando raid in Uganda to rescue 106 hostages aboard an Air France jet.

Ford said the Israeli rescue thwarted "a senseless act of terrorism."

The White House made public the one-paragraph letter in Philadelphia after Ford delivered a Bicentennial address at Independence Hall.

A 'Surprise'

BANGOR, Maine (UPI) — Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, said Sunday he was surprised by Jimmy Carter's invitation to confer with him as a possible vice presidential nominee but he has an open mind about the office.

Muskie was in Bangor to take part in the city's July 4 parade.

The Maine Democrat, who was Hubert Humphrey's running mate in 1968, said he received a telephone call from Carter Saturday night at his home in Kennebunk Beach and agreed to fly to Plains, Ga., Sunday.

Two Arrested on
Bombing Charges

TOPSFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — An apparent July 4 attempt to blow up a state police barracks failed Sunday as authorities investigating recent New England bombings arrested two men and seized 46 sticks of dynamite.

Two other suspects were being sought in a massive state police search.

There have been 11 bombings in Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire since April 22.

At Hershey, Pa.

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI) — Governors from across the nation began gathering in Pennsylvania Sunday to discuss what role the states will play in the nation's "third century," talk election year politics and greet Queen Elizabeth.

Iowa Gov. Robert Ray, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, predicted in a televised interview Sunday that states will take a greater leadership role in U.S. life in the next century.

"I would expect the states to play a very dominant role in the third century," he said. "I think you will find more and more leadership there."

To 244 Deaths

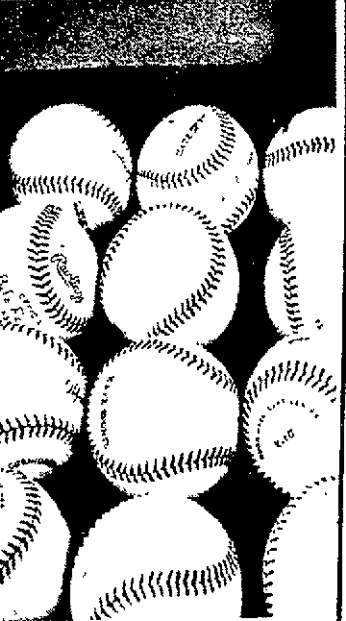

Americans flocked in cars to festivities commemorating the nation's 200th birthday Sunday, triggering scores of traffic deaths.

The National Safety Council projected that between 530 and 630 persons would die on the nation's roads during the three-day weekend beginning at 6 p.m. local time Friday.

A United Press International count showed 244 persons had died in traffic accidents by 5 p.m. EDT Sunday, still before millions take to the roads for the trek home from holiday journeys.

Israelis Rescue 100 Held Hostage in 2,300-Mile Raid

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — In a stunning 36-minute midnight strike into Uganda, Israeli commandos rescued more than 100 hostages held by pro-Palestinian hijackers and flew triumphantly back to Tel Aviv Sunday.

"Quick—run for the planes!" the commandos screamed in Hebrew amid machine gun bursts at the Entebbe, Uganda, airfield where hijackers held 104 hostages from an Air France Airbus hijacked last Sunday.

More than 100 Ugandan soldiers, three hostages and the Israeli officer who led the raid were reported killed by the shrapnel and bullets that ripped across the airfield. At least 11 hostages and Israeli were reported wounded.

Israeli officials said all seven hijackers—two Germans and five Arabs—were killed.

The attack force flew 2,300 miles into Entebbe in three planes just before midnight Saturday, apparently under the pretext of delivering imprisoned guerrillas demanded by the hijackers.

The paratroop and infantry units, some in civilian clothes, leapt from the planes and stormed the sweltering terminal where the hostages slept surrounded by dynamite.

"It was very fast—a few shots and then explosions all over the place," said David Elberbaum, one of the freed hostages. "We all lay down on the floor and then our soldiers came running in."

He said one of the hijackers tossed a grenade at the hostages—71 Israelis, 10 of whom hold dual citizenship in the United States and elsewhere, 21 French nationals and 12 crew members—as the soldiers rushed the building.

There were 258 persons—including four hijackers—aboard the Air France jetline hijacked June 27 on a flight from Tel Aviv to Paris.

The hijackers, later joined by three comrades, freed 149 non-Jews Wednesday and Thursday.

The guerrillas claimed allegiance to the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Hundreds of relatives surged across an air force base near Tel Aviv Sunday morning to embrace the first weary, red-eyed and unshaven hostages to arrive.

"It was the longest week of my life," said Janet Almog, from Madison, Wis., now married to an Israeli. "We did think we would get out, but not that way."

The raid came only hours before the 7 a.m. EDT Sunday deadline set by hijackers for meeting their demand that 53 imprisoned guerrillas—40 in Israel and 13 in Switzerland, West Germany, France and Kenya—be released.

Israeli leaders used negotiations as a cover for the attack in a C130 Hercules military transport and two El Al Boeing 707 jetliners.

In Kampala, President Idi Amin said he was "counting the bodies" of Ugandan soldiers killed in the raid and placed his 20,000-man army on full alert.

Ugandan Foreign Minister Juma Ons said more than 100 Ugandan soldiers were killed, 11 warplanes destroyed and an airport building wrecked during the "Zionist invasion" of his country.

City Drug Busts: 91% for Pot

NEW YORK CITY—The City of Kingston contributed 61 marijuana arrests to the New York State total of more than 30,000 in 1975, according to statistics compiled by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML).

The 61 arrests comprised 91 per cent of the 67 drug arrests in the city. Statewide, exclusive of New York City, marijuana arrests accounted for 85 per cent of all drug busts.

Some figures for other communities, with the marijuana figure listed first and total drug arrests second, are: Newburgh 58 of 59; Poughkeepsie 42 of 93; Albany 211 of 283; New York State Police 6,543 of 7,486; Troy 92 of 92; Nassau County 1,378 of 1,629; and New York City 7,154 of 17,083 or 41.9 per cent.

The State Legislature recessed last week without acting on a half dozen marijuana reform bills. They included separate decriminalization proposals advanced by Governor Carey, Senate Minority Leader Manfred Ohrenstein, and Assemblymen Richard Gottfried, H.J. Miller and Stanley Fink, respective chairmen of the Assembly Child Care, Health, and Codes Committees.

It was the second straight year that state marijuana arrests topped 30,000, although the number declined from 34,082 in 1974 to 33,855 in 1975. There were 23,603 arrests in 1973.

Frank Fioramonti, state director of NORML, said the data was made available by several legislative and executive department sources, as FBI statistics have not yet been published for 1975 and this information has not previously been revealed to the public.

Fioramonti, speaking for NORML, said, "Two very disturbing patterns emerge from these shocking statistics. First, only 1,979 of these arrests, a mere 5.8 per cent, were for the sale or distribution of marijuana. Thus, despite frequent statements that the police are only interested in apprehending marijuana sellers and dealers, over 94 per cent of all arrests were for simple possession."

The brunt of marijuana law enforcement still falls on very young people. According to the New York City Police Department, more than 50 per cent of the more than 7,000 city marijuana arrests last year were of persons under the age of 20; and 73.8 per cent were under age 24.

Based on a 1972 Vera Institute of Justice study, that set the cost of processing an average arrest at $1,702, and allowing for inflation since then, NORML estimated that marijuana arrests in 1975 cost state and local governments more than $60 million tax dollars.

MARKET BASKET

Food Prices Up Again

KINGSTON — Continuing high prices for fresh fruits and vegetables pushed the cost of feeding a family of four in Kingston up .7 per cent for the week ending July 2, according to figures compiled by the Ulster County Consumer Information branch of the district attorney's office.

The cost of the 41-item market basket was $65.98 for the week. The same foods cost $65.55 for the week ending June 25.

While the fruits and vegetables food category went up, meats and fish went down 8 per cent.

The market basket in the Ellenville-Warrensburg area was up to 3 per cent less expensive than grocery shopping in four other geographical areas sampled by the consumer information branch.

The market basket cost $65.84 in the Ellenville-Warrensburg area. The New Paltz-Rosendale-Port Ewen market basket, last week's low price leader, cost $65.96. Kingston's $65.98 was close behind.

The Marlboro-Lloyd area was the most expensive in which to shop, with a market basket total of $66.28.

Legislators to Buck Increase

KINGSTON — Two local lawmakers will ask the county legislature to pressure the Public Service Commission to refuse Central Hudson an increase in rates at their July 8 session and will probably oppose moving the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board from Kingston.

Legislators Eugene Perry, D-City, and James Canino, D-Dist. 9, will urge pressure on state officials to act unfavorably on an application by Central Hudson to increase residential, commercial and industrial electric and gas rates by as much as 11.7 per cent.

A proposal to consolidate Ulster County's ABC Board with Sullivan County's board and move the Kingston office, located here for 42 years, to a new location, is frowned on by both parties. Peter Savago, R-Dist. 8, and James Gilpatric, D-City, want the State Liquor Authority to continue to maintain and staff the Kingston office for the convenience of local licensees.

Already on record as favoring the lease or purchase of a computer power management system for county buildings, the legislature will move to hire Kingston architect Albert Scarperi to draw the required installation plans.

With 2,500 county residents newly eligible for SSI food stamps, five welfare examiners will be hired for the Social Services Department. Their salaries will be 100 per cent reimbursable by the federal government. Hurlings and promotions at the County Infirmary, however, will cost close to $11,000 for 10 persons involved, including nurses, aides, food service and laundry workers and one laborer.

The Tax Base Study Committee has recommended requesting Albany leaders to reconsider bills permitting the state's government units to levy real property taxes in excess of constitutional limits. The Public Health Committee supports a contract between the state and county to aid the swine flu program here through appropriations.

To permit immediate hiring of a temporary administrator on a consultant basis for the county's Youth Bureau, a transfer of budget funds will be asked to cover the $2,000 salary involved.

Specifically attuned to summer will be requests to purchase four air conditioners for the Real Property Tax Service Agency, and two for the Food Stamps Offices at Golden Hill.

Patriotism Wins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Bicentennial Fourth of July celebration which began on a note of protest swelled Sunday to a patriotic finale which drew hundreds of thousands of persons to a thundering fireworks welcome to the third century of American independence.

For Washington, the 200th birthday of the Declaration of Independence featured a new left rally sponsored by the People's Bicentennial Commission, a procession of visitors to view the document adopted in Philadelphia two centuries ago and what was described as the greatest fireworks display in U.S. history.

Even for a city used to tourists but dead on Sundays, Washington took on a look of a state fairgrounds in its downtown streets. T-shirts abounded — some emblazoned "Maryland is for Crabs" or "Beneath this T-Shirt beats the Heart of America."

The protest rally sponsored by the Peoples Bicentennial Commission drew far fewer than its backers had anticipated. The best guess by police of the crowd at the demonstration at the foot of Capitol was 10,000 to 15,000 adherents compared to the 50,000 and more hoped for by organizer Jeremy Rifkin.

But the evening fireworks display on the Washington Monument grounds, began pulling crowds to the Ellipse and other vantage points hours before the event was scheduled.

By mid-afternoon, spectators headed for early seating on the grassy expanses providing the best viewpoint for the pyrotechnics. They streamed toward the fireworks area toting picnic hampers, coolers, children papoose-style, blankets and tents. Even a late-afternoon spattering of rain didn't deter them.

Some of those at the protest left before the final speeches were over to find a spot for the firework display.

President Ford completed a swing up the eastern seaboard to Valley Forge, Philadelphia and New York to return to the White House to view the spectacular from the privacy of the Truman Balcony in executive mansion.

The PBC rally fell short of the number planned for the appearances of Jane Fonda, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, ecologist Barry Commoner and Rifkin. The day-long event went off without incident.

Bombing Attempt Fizzles

TOPSFIELD, Mass. (UPI)

An apparent July 4 attempt to blow up a state police barracks failed Sunday as authorities investigating recent New England bombings arrested a man and seized 46 sticks of dynamite.

Two other suspects were being sought in a massive state police search.

There have been 11 bombings in Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire since April 22.

FBI Special Agent Richard Bates said courthouses in Boston, Lowell and Newburyport, Mass., were bombed by devices similar to a pair of tape-wrapped packages of dynamite found in the suspect's automobile Sunday.

"The bomber knew what he was doing," said state police bomb expert Joe Sainato about the quality of the two bombs.

Maine State Police and the FBI began following a car in Maine late Saturday night as part of an investigation of the May 11 double bombing in Augusta of the Central Maine Power Co.

Authorities said they trailed the car through New Hampshire to the two-story red-brick headquarters of the Massachusetts State Police, where two of the suspects left the car and walked to the rear of the building just before midnight. The third man remained in the car.

Police moved in, but the two suspects fled into a wooded area. The third man sped away.

State police converged on the area and the car was found in nearby Peabody at 3:45 a.m., where it had hit some trees while trying to turn a corner.

At 5:39 a.m., Joseph Acido, 23, of Portland, Maine, was arrested about a half mile from the accident and charged with illegal possession of firearms. He was held pending arraignment Tuesday in Salem District Court.

State Police bomb experts found the cache of dynamite beneath the front seat of the automobile. Twenty-two loose sticks were found in a woman's black purse and the rest was wrapped into a pair of bombs bound by black electrician's tape and attached to crude timers made of cheap pocketwatches and batteries. One bomb contained 19 sticks of dynamite and the other 5 sticks.

An automatic rifle, two pistols and ammunition were also discovered in the car.

Kehoe said the dynamite was part of 600 pounds of explosive stolen May 2 from Daniel's Blasting and Drilling Co. in New Boston, N.H. He said 500 pounds were still missing.

Mexicans Pick New President

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Former treasury secretary Jose Lopez Portillo, sole candidate on the ballot, was elected president of Mexico Sunday against only token opposition from three write-in candidates.

Backed by the powerful Revolutionary Institutional Party machine, dominating force in Mexican politics since the 1930s, the 56-year-old Lopez Portillo's only concern was the extent of possible voter apathy.

However, the PRI forecast a tally of at least 16 million votes for the one-time university professor who will succeed President Luis Echeverria for a six-year term Dec. 1.

Millions of men and women aged 18 and over lined up at the 43,358 polling place throughout the nation when the polls opened Sunday morning in the federal district here and in 32 states.

There were 25.9 million registered voters, an all-time record, but the token opposition to Lopez Portillo left the presidential contest devoid of any drama.

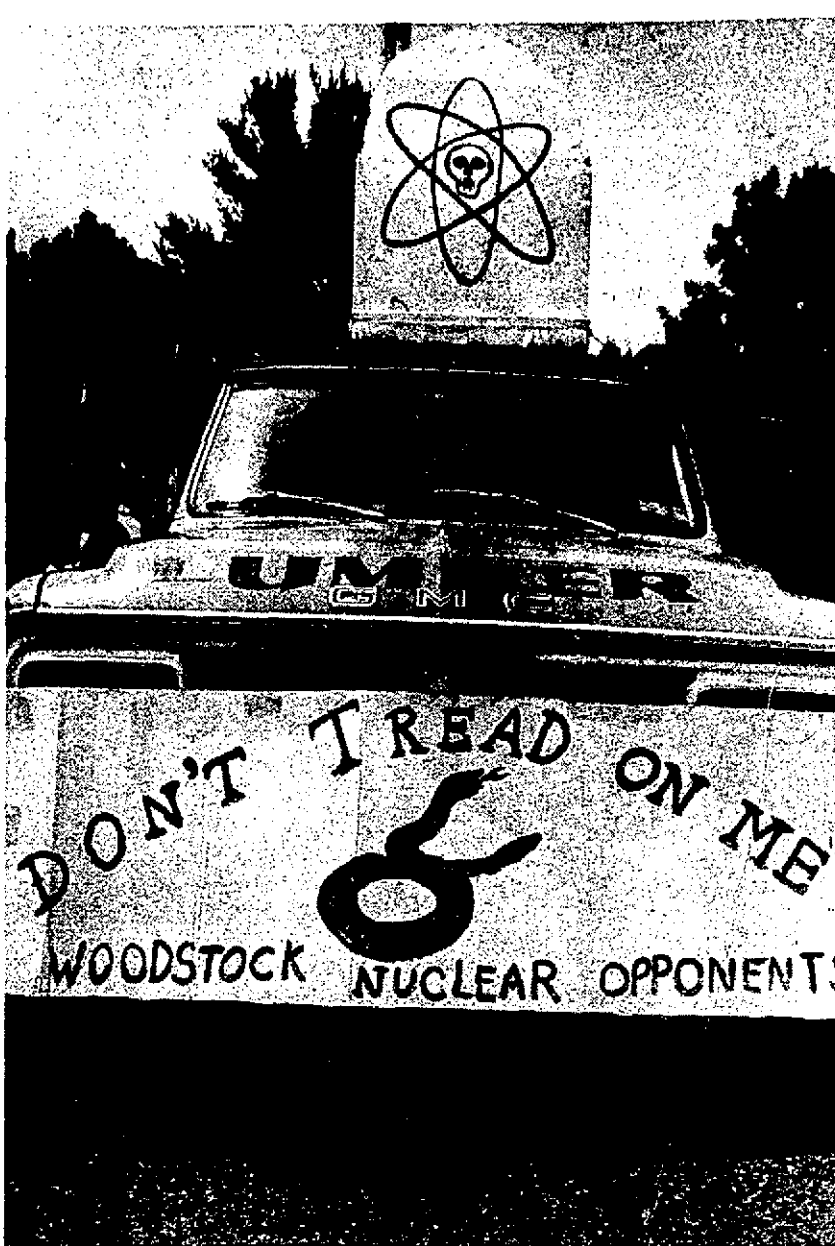

Police stood by in cities, towns and hamlets in case of any disorders. Held in readiness to back them up in case of any major trouble were units of the Mexican army.

All 64 Senate seats and all 194 seats in the chamber of deputies were also at stake in the national elections.

But, as with the presidency, opposition parties were given only the minutest chances of winning more than a handful of seats.

The absence of any traditional opposition on the presidential ballot was a first in modern Mexican political history.

DON'T TREAD ON ME

"Don't Tread on Me," as old a warning as the Revolution itself, seems to be a rallying cry with modern applications. The Woodstock Nuclear Opponents adopted it as the theme of their float in the Woodstock Fourth of July Parade, held Sunday. The group was protesting the possible location of nuclear power plants in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

City Woman 'Critical' After New Paltz Crash

NEW PALTZ — A 20-year-old Kingston woman was listed in "critical" condition Sunday night in the intensive care unit of Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie after a one-car accident in New Paltz Saturday Morning.

Valerie Burlew was injured when her car crossed the center line of North Chestnut Street in the village and struck a tree head on, according to the New Paltz Police Department. She was taken to the hospital by the New Paltz Rescue Squad.

The police said "evidence at the scene" indicated that she may have fallen asleep at the wheel. The investigation is continuing.

High Speed Chase

An 18-year-old Hurley man was arrested early Sunday morning after leading police on two chases in stolen cars at speeds over 100 miles per hour, according to the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

John Stephano was taken into custody and charged with criminal possession of stolen property in the first degree and various traffic violations, said Sheriff's Deputy Tom Johnson.

The chase began about 6 a.m. when Michael Lyons of the Sheriff's Department spotted a Lincoln Continental reported stolen earlier in the evening heading north at speeds above 100 miles per hour on Route 9W in the Town of Ulster, police said.

Lyons gave pursuit while the fleeing car swerved in and out of traffic, finally running off the road near the Belvedere Lounge. The driver then allegedly ran into nearby woods. Meanwhile New York State Police and Saugerties police joined the chase.

Thirty minutes later, police said, a stolen Rambler emerged from the woods with Stephano behind the wheel. He was seen and taken into custody by police.

Stephano was arraigned before Town Justice Cattelli and remanded to Ulster County jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Carter Ponders Muskie for VP

Sen. Edmund F. Muskie headed for the Plains, Ga., home of apparent presidential nominee Jimmy Carter Sunday and a conference about the possibility of his becoming the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Carter's disclosure he planned to meet the Maine senator — the first of a series of sessions with possible running mates in the coming week — was the major political development of a holiday weekend dominated by Bicentennial celebrations.

President Ford participated in ceremonies in Valley Forge, Pa., Philadelphia and New York City, taking advantage of an audience of more than 100,000 persons at Philadelphia's Independence Hall to deliver some political oratory.

"There is still so much to be done," Ford said. "...We must develop a safer society without fear of crime. Build a more stable international order, improve health and conquer disease ... to enrich the quality of American life at work, play and in our homes."

Ford's rival for the Republican nomination, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, spent a quiet July 4th celebration at his ranch outside Santa Barbara. His supporters predicted they would take all 31 Colorado delegates to the Republican national convention, who will be chosen next weekend.

Carter told newsmen Muskie would arrive around midnight Sunday and confer with him Monday. The senator was Democratic vice presidential candidate in 1968.

"I think that he's demonstrated in the past as vice presidential candidate his acceptance around the nation," Carter said of Muskie. Carter added, however, "I'm going to keep my options open right on up to the time of the nomination of myself. I don't want to close any doors."

Democratic Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota said in a televised interview Sunday Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., would be the strongest running mate for Carter. Mondale is among the half dozen Carter named as under consideration.

In Austin, Tex., Republican Sen. John Tower said Saturday Ford would win the GOP nomination and suggested former Texas Gov. John Connally as a good running mate.

Five Are Dead in Crash

AVOCA, N.Y. (UPI) — A five-month-old child Sunday but failed to avoid the crash, became the fifth victim of a head-on collision Saturday in Steuben County, according to state police.

Troopers said young Joline Keukelaar of Victor died at Arnot-Ogden Hospital in Elmira after remaining in critical condition throughout the night.

Four other members of Joline's family were killed Saturday evening when the van in which they were riding collided head-on with a tractor-trailer in Avoca.

Troopers said the truck was passing a vehicle when it rounded a curve and met the van. Both vehicles swerved but failed to avoid the crash.

Also killed in the crash were: Mary Cooke, 55, of Holcomb; her son, Joseph Cooke, 34, of Victor; her daughter, Margaret Keukelaar, 30, of Victor; and her granddaughter, Waneta Forbes, 14, of Holcomb.

Remaining in critical condition at the hospital in Elmira was 11-year-old Jeffrey Forbes of Holcomb. In fair condition in Bath was Mary Forbes, 36, of Holcomb.

In satisfactory condition in Bath were: Audra Keukelaar, 4; Connie Keukelaar, 5; and Richard Forbes, 6.

Mars Data Puzzles Viking Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Some of the Viking project scientists were spending the long holiday weekend studying "puzzling" Martian data sent back by Viking 1.

"A different picture of a dynamic planet is emerging," a scientist said.

The spacecraft is to send its lander to the surface of Mars July 17 in an area called the Northwest Territory, a windy northern plain that once may have been the end of a river delta.

Temperature and water vapor readings of the planet gathered from infra red spectroscopy instruments on the orbiting spacecraft do not fit the theories, a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Sunday.

"Some of these readings are frankly puzzling," Dr. George Sands of Mission Control said. "It's obviously wetter than they anticipated. There's no doubt there's ground fog at the landing site during part of the day," a JPL spokesman said. "And the amount of argon at the south polar region—that's something interesting."

The south polar region temperatures were colder than scientists thought possible, below

the condensation point of carbon dioxide which makes up much of the Martian atmosphere.

Tests also showed the polar cap region had about 80 per cent of an inert gas which was believed to be argon. But the gas does not cover the planet in such amounts, the spokesman said.

About 30 microns of water have been found in the atmosphere at the landing site, enough to cause ground fog, frost and even snow.

The models of Mars scientists had been working with did not provide for the data they have received, the spokesman said.

Also being studied were radar readings from the 1,000 foot dish at Arecibo, Puerto Rico, which scientists said would help determine the hazards of the landing site.

Viking 1's orbit will be shifted July 8 with course correction and it will slowly move toward the landing site, about 150 miles from the first choice landing area which was found to be too hazardous.

On July 12, another course correction, requiring a small engine burn, will be made to put the spacecraft into synchronization with the rotation of the planet prior to separation and landing.

County Offers Free Swimming Lessons Here

KINGSTON—Ulster County Legislator Robert Kelder, chairman of the Youth and Recreation Committee, has announced that free swimming lessons are again being offered at the county's Ulster Landing Park on the Hudson River off Ulster Landing Road.

Registration will be on Fridays, July 2 and 9 at the park pavilion, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Each session will consist of a half hour every weekday for two weeks. Sessions will be held from July 6-16, July 19-30, August 2-13 and August 16-27.

Classes for beginners ages six and up are held from 10:15 to 10:45 to 11:15 a.m. Hours for advanced beginners ages seven and up are 11:30 to 12:00 noon. Classes for intermediate swimmers are from 12:00 to 12:30 p.m.

STAFF'S CHANCE

Let's take an old-fashioned walk, or auto ride, through uptown Kingston. Pile everybody into the family car and come to the corner of North Fron and Green streets, on you'll notice more. Start with the 1600s, the Nicholas Hoffman House and the Frog Alley Ruin; walk along Green to John, past the house of the first sheriff; to Crown Street's remarkable corner, the 1700s with the Stockade Restaurant Building, formerly Kingston Academy, a junior college during Revolutionary Days; the Home Extension office building and the two private homes. Walk on over to the corner of Wall and Main streets for the 1800s with St. Joseph's Church and Old Dutch Church and Fred Johnston's home of Federal design. The Old Dutch Church built in 1852 has Egyptian lines as you stand and look at it. Then on over to the corner of Fair and Main for the glass County Office Building of this century.

There, four centuries within four blocks, probably the only city in the United States with original buildings from each of the centuries still intact and still being used. Although the Nicholas Hoffman House is not in use at the moment, the Tappen House on Crown Street is of the same late 1600s and has recently been opened as the drive-in window office for Heritage Savings Bank.

Try to imagine the type of people who might have taken the same path during each of those four centuries. There were daring Dutch traders; rabble-rousing rebels, enough to have the whole town burned in 1777; blue stone merchants and teamsters; farmers, seamen and Delaware and Hudson "canawlers." Young women sat by those attic windows weaving and fashioning clothes. Young men have left to fight in all the wars from the Indian massacre of 1663.

If there's historical celebrating to be done, we have a bona fide setting.

77-year-old Fears Bankruptcy

Dear Editor:

On June 25 the Hon. Benjamin Gilman scheduled an appearance to speak to his constituents at the Plattekill Town Hall. Although Mr. Gilman came 1 1/2 hours late, the assembled citizens, mostly angry taxpayers, patiently waited. One question asked of him was why the American public must subsidize the billionaire corporations. When corporations make a profit, it is divided among the big executives, but when they are in trouble, the general public must rush to their rescue. If this is the case, why doesn't our government nationalize all corporations and get both profit and loss? Mr. Gilman answered that we cannot interfere with private enterprise.

Other questions were about the increased assessments. Mr. Gilman suggested that the taxpayers hire lawyers, or approach the legislators. It is useless to plead with such politicians since they are the same legislators who mandated such a mess. It would be like trusting chickens to a pack of foxes.

I told the congressman that last year my assessment was $22,000, and I paid $2,000 in taxes, but now with a tax assessment 13 times more than last year ($273,000), only God knows what the tax total will be. This means that I, at the age of 77, after 40 years of hard work, must start to pack and declare bankruptcy. I then told Mr. Gilman that if such unjust taxation is not revised, by the year 1977 there will be an influx of bankrupt taxpayers.

I see no difference between being robbed by a Communist take-over or by our own legislators who are very busy increasing their own LULUs and salaries.

Dear Editor:

Please know that there is a sense of awareness in we who read your newspaper. We take a moment to commend those people who were responsible for 1) the planting of the hyacinths, 2) the beautiful trees that we observe along your streets and avenues, 3) the consumption of the Pike Plan uptown, 4) your constant vigilance of your corporate premises to frustrate crime and enforce your laws which ultimately work to the betterment of all society and, lastly, for the beautiful happenings that took place downtown this whole weekend. What a terribly worthwhile endeavor and how much we all enjoyed! A big sincere handshake of friendship to all the dedicated and community motivated individuals who gave so much to your wonderful city.

Kindness to Puppies Misplaced

Dear Editor:

I read an article recently in this Letters to the Editor column about how pleased this person was to see a family giving away puppies in front of Caldor's rather than bringing them to the S.P.C.A. or abandoning them.

Well, let's look at the real side of the coin. These people were giving puppies to total strangers, not knowing or caring what kind of treatment these poor creatures would receive. They were adding to the overpopulation of unwanted litters because mostly every person that took a puppy, if they kept it, would not bother to have it spayed or neutered. They also won't learn a lesson and have their dog spayed — they will think how easy it is to get homes for the litters.

What a horrible thing it is to have dogs and cats given away as if they were inanimate objects with no feelings at all of their own. It's a good thing I did not visit Caldor's and see the puppy give-away — I would probably be a resident of the county jail for creating a disturbance.

No Answers to Nuclear Safety

Dear Editor:

The "establishment" and its entourage of labor unions and professional societies are attempting to justify an expanded nuclear power program in New York State.

Numbers of scientists and engineers are claiming that if we are to have adequate electrical power we must use the nuclear technology upon which we have lavished billions of dollars.

The public, however, is beginning to suspect that no additional, enormously expensive nuclear plants will ever be needed if we use our present vast electric generating capacity more efficiently. A federal survey has shown that we are still wasting 56 per cent of our energy. No sacrifice, no belt-tightening is needed, but an all-out effort must be made to reduce waste.

Experts are agreed it would be a great stimulus to the economy and create hundreds of thousands of jobs if we used present energy more efficiently. Many states are encouraging energy conservation by allowing tax breaks for homeowners who insulate. Industrial and commercial firms have demonstrated savings of up to 30 per cent. If 20 years of expenditure have not been able to make nuclear power fairly safe, it stands to reason that the job cannot now be done by spending more millions.

Just as it took the public many years to wake up to the facts about Vietnam, the public is now only gradually beginning to comprehend the magnitude of damage to this country and a fragile planet if we persist in this most complex and dangerous way of boiling water.

There must be widespread public discussion. The popular decision of people affected by a nuclear proposal should prevail.

In a number of communities, public forums have been sponsored by medical societies, labor unions, church and women's civic groups so that the public can hear both sides of the story. It would be a great public service if the colleges in the mid-Hudson River Valley were to sponsor this fall an all day or possibly two day convocation of experts.

U.S. Heavyhanded Toward Cuba

WASHINGTON (KFS) — El Presidente Gerald Ford dropped in on Puerto Rico the other day and the first thing he did was to tell El Jefe Supremo, Fidel Castro, to keep his cotton-pickers off that island. If Ronald Reagan had said it everybody would be yapping about how irresponsible he is.

The Cuban threat is a geopolitical version of the miracle of the loaves and the fishes. Here is an island nation that's about 760 miles long, 50 miles thick with 8.5 million people, and to listen to American officialdom you'd think that this small gang of stogie pufflers are about to conquer the world. When they're not subverting Puerto Rico we're warning them of Panama, Angola or Rhodesia. Where do they get all the troops for these escapades? Russian volunteers and left-wing Hollywood starlets who missed the charter flight when the Venceremos Brigade went home to Pasadena?

No man and no country in the world is as adept at getting the American government's goat as Castro and Cuba. We rise to the bait every time and we do it with such unvarying consistency that Castro plants rumors of new Cuban subversions in unlikely places as a pastime. Don't be surprised to read that Kissinger has warned the Maximum Leader of Cuban socialism to stop fomenting civil war in Lebanon.

In the last few years saner heads in Washington have begun to question this ceaseless and pointless vendetta against our Caribbean neighbor. Why, they want to know, do we continue to try to embargo and starve the Cubans 18 years after their revolution? We did the same with the Russians and with the Chinese only to give it up and admit we'd made idiots of ourselves.

Given the history of U.S.-Cuban relations, it's they who have every moral right to be attempting to quarantine us. Cuba might be considered the first country in which the United States tried out what is now called neo-colonialism, that is, having ostensibly free and independent states which are in reality run by an invisible American proconsul. Back at the turn of the century the technique wasn't perfected so we sometimes left our paw prints around. Thus the first Cuban Constitution (Article III) had a remarkable clause in it conceding "that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the Treaty of Paris..." The aforesaid Treaty of Paris ended the Spanish-American War and, although it determined Cuba's fate until the coming of Castro, the Cubans neither drafted it nor signed it.

Under this intervention clause, known as the Platt Amendment, we thrice sent troops into the country. The worst was in 1906 when we sent a certain Charles Magoon of Nebraska to be the governor of Cuba. The indignity of it! To be ruled over by a man named Magoon. In the America of 1906 or now such a Magoon should aspire to nothing higher than saloon keeper or alderman.

Magoon was but one of a succession of Americans sent to Cuba to teach "the cheating 'manana' lot" — as Theodore Roosevelt called the inhabitants of that island, how to conduct themselves in a democratic and Anglo-Saxon manner. The Cubans were bad pupils. They rioted and revolted under a procession of Quisling presidents who set new records for theft, speculation and diversion of funds from the public purse.

The American penetration and domination of the Cuban economy left the little island in a condition of near vassalage. A U.S. Department of Commerce publication in 1956 made the point better than any Marxist-Leninist could: "American participation exceeds 90 per cent in the telephone and electric services, about 50 per cent in public service railways and roughly 40 per cent in raw sugar production. The Cuban branches of the United States banks are entrusted with almost one-fourth of all bank deposits... The outlook for additional investment is also good." (As quoted in "Revolution in Cuba," by Herbert L. Matthews, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, 1975.)

That by no means exhausts the catalogue of American ownership and control. The mining interests were American and so were the tourist hotels, the dope peddling and prostitution. By the time Castro came to power we'd turned Cuban men into busboys and pimps and Cuban women into whores. No revolution could take over in such a situation without confiscation of foreign investments. We Americans ought to understand that, given the national freakout at the publication of the mere possibility that the Arabs might buy a chunk of one of our better-known, near-bankrupt airlines.

The American policy has been anything but empathetic. While playing down the actual history of the relations between the two countries, in public Castro has been denominated a bandit, and in secret the scum of the Mafia were sworn into the CIA and told if their hit men scored on the Cuban leader they could have their whore houses back.

Aspiring to The Dollar Bill

This is a good time to examine the national conscience. Everything in America is almost right. Not quite, but almost. We adore success. It is the sole goal. Success means money. Lots of money.

We aspire to the dollar bill. This is a greenish piece of paper 2 5/8 inches by 6 1/8 inches, 43/1000 of an inch thick. Anyone who has 2,796 of them has a stack one foot thick.

The piece of paper is increasingly worthless. As an example, a pound of steak cost 17 cents in 1910. The cost today averages $1.89, a devaluation of 1,100 per cent.

The cheaper the dollar gets, the harder we chase it. Fewer and fewer become richer and richer and more and more become poorer and poorer. Dollars became scarce, so Diners Club issued a credit card.

Some credit cards were in existence in 1900, but Diners made the game popular in 1950. Overnight, it became possible to spend dollars we didn't have, or hadn't earned. The card was magical.

The card became the dollar. It was the middleman between the restaurant and the customer. Eight years later, the Bank of America and Chase Manhattan got into the act.

Today we have 82 million persons living off cards. We don't need the greenbacks. Card holders live 30 days behind their expenditures. Most of us are a month in arrears of our debts. If we cannot pay, most cards will charge 18 per cent interest per year on what we owe.

The weakness of the card is the predilection of Americans to purchase more than they can afford. We buy 23 per cent more than we should. We see, we want, we buy.

The National Business Council for Consumer Affairs states that, as a people, we are in debt for $140 billion each year. Of this, $2.5 billion can be written off as bad debts.

Thousands of shops and restaurants discount what we owe for the original almighty dollar. They take our signed debts to a bank and settle for 2.5 per cent to 7 per cent less than face value. The bank takes a chance that, in time, it will collect the full amount.

All information, good and bad, goes into soulless computers whose only relation to humans is that they commit errors. The machine sometimes gives a good credit risk a bad name. Congress, acting fearlessly, passed a law against the computer in 1971 to "protect consumers against... inaccurate or obsolete information."

The interminable race for the dollar continues. There is an organization called the Internal Revenue Service which also hunts dollar bills. In 1913, Congress passed a law enabling the IRS to charge all wage earners a certain amount of their dollars to keep the government chunking and churning.

This is reasonable because, as Thomas Paine pointed out, a man must pay a certain amount of his wealth so that the government may protect his right to the remainder of it.

The IRS believes that Americans are inherently dishonest. Each year, it audits 2.5 million income tax returns, hoping to tighten the remainder. For this shameful task, the IRS requires 45,000 highly paid employees. No one has ever audited the IRS.

These are the faceless monastery monks of our republic, the Inquisitors in double-knit suits. They squeeze the money from the taxpayers to defray the cost of the government.

The cost always goes up. Most of the hundreds of billions are paid by persons earning from $4,000 to $25,000 a year. One billion defrays the cost of the IRS, which produces nothing. Last year 300,000 Americans declared personal bankruptcy.

The Social Security system doesn't have to chase dollars. They pour like Niagara. The wage earner and the employer pay. And yet, as Irving Wallace points out in "The People's Almanac," few citizens get back more than 33 per cent of what they put into the system.

The same money, contributed by worker and boss, deposited in a bank at 5 per cent interest, would yield almost twice as much at age 65. The aged, if they survive by additional work, must continue to pay Social Security and income tax.

The chase for the dollar is a fast escalator going in the wrong direction. Once upon a time it was an American custom to live within our means and put 10 per cent in the bank. It's an old fable which begins, "Once upon a time..."

Outcry At Bolles Death

WASHINGTON — The loudest cries of outrage over the brutal murder of Don Bolles, investigative reporter for the Arizona Republic, have come from members of the Arizona political establishment.

Since his death last month, the state legislature has whittled away at the wrongs he had exposed, including the Funk-Emprise dog racing monopoly, and has come up with $100,000 for the murder investigation.

Yet during all the years Bolles was warning how hoodlums were robbing the taxpayers, Arizona officials squirmed a little but did nothing. Bolles would have condemned the hypocrisy.

We sent one of our own investigative reporters, Larry Kraftowitz, to Phoenix to follow up the stories that Bolles never finished. Kraftowitz learned that Bolles had been in secret contact with a Phoenix businessman, named Fred Porter Jr., who was battling the Funk-Emprise dog racing interests.

In an earlier column, we reported that the two had worked together closely right up to the day Bolles was blown up in his car. Among the last words he gasped were: "Mafia ... Emprise ... They finally got me."

The frightened Porter sought protection from the Phoenix police who kept him under guard for three days. The same day the guard was withdrawn, Porter was slugged over the head twice with a pipe and left for dead on the ground.

Retracing Bolles' steps, Kraftowitz also learned that the Arizona Republic reporter was working on another story. Six days before he climbed into his bomb-rigged car, Bolles contacted Phillip E. Jones, who had helped to prepare a legislative staff report on land fraud.

We can now publish the story that Bolles probably would have uncovered if he had lived. We have learned that the land fraud report was mysteriously torn up. The research division, which drafted the report, was also disbanded as part of a staff reorganization. Several of the staff members were fired.

Some powerful legislators apparently were unhappy over their investigative zeal. The suppressed report, according to sources who saw it before it was destroyed, accused certain regulatory agencies of failing to cooperate with land fraud investigations. The report also hinted that high state officials were aware of the land frauds but were treating them with massive indifference.

Two watered-down reports eventually were published. But the staff members who worked on them were harassed. When portions of the second report leaked to the press, the staff man who wrote it, Leon Beene, was chewed out by his supervisor, Harry Gutterman. At the time, Gutterman reported to the legislative leadership.

Tersely, Gutterman warned Beene never to make a move without first consulting him. Beene continued to meet secretly with police investigators, nevertheless, warning that he'd be fired if caught.

Footnote. Beene confirmed he had drafted the reports on land fraud but refused to discuss his reprimand. Gutterman had no comment.

CREeping CORRUPTION: The corporations that do business in Washington seldom resort to anything so gross as bribing public officials. Rather, the corporate pleaders engage in creeping corruption so gentle that the officials often don't recognize that they have been corrupted.

By a series of small favors, the influence artists seek to instill in the officials a feeling of personal obligation. The favor range from theater tickets and imported liquors to French perfumes and free transportation. It is the accumulation, rather than any single gift, that gradually obligates the courted officials.

Throughout the process, the official often persuade themselves that there is no connection between the favors they receive and the decisions they make. But they wind up losing their sense of dedication to the public and feeling a greater loyalty to their new corporate friends.

Aerojet-General, for example, wanted to sell about $2 million worth of rocket equipment to a Japanese firm. This required an export license from the State Department, which consulted the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for advice on the Aerojet contract.

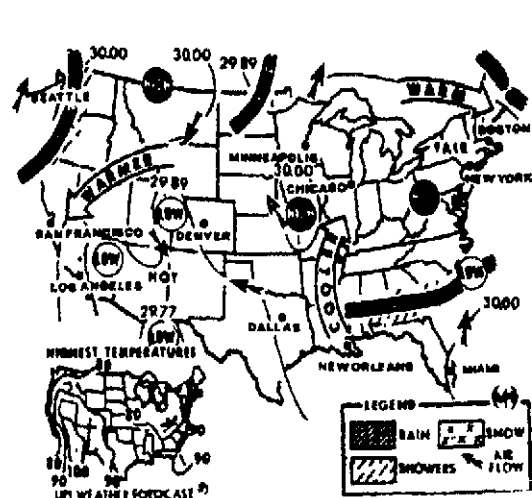

One of NASA's deputy assistant administrators, Steve Doyle, played an important role in providing the State Department with the answers about Aerojet. Suddenly, the corporation sought out and befriended this obscure official.

Doyle was wine and dined by Aerojet executives. One executive, Tony Piantes, took Doyle and his wife to dinner and theater. Aerojet also offered Doyle some scarce Washington Redskins football tickets and invited him to a corporate Christmas party.

Footnote: Doyle acknowledged that he had been a luncheon and dinner guest of Aerojet. He was invited to the football game, he said, but did not attend. Doyle conceded that he had "participated" in reviewing cases involving Aerojet for the State Department. But both Doyle and Piantes strongly denied any wrongful intent.

Iran Diary Divulges Up-Close Glimpses Of Hollywood Headliners Among the Royalty

United Feature Syndicate's Marian Christy was among 150 VIP's on Iranian Ambassador Ardeshir Zahedi's guest list for the inaugural flight of Iran Air's 747 to Tehran.

So was Liz Taylor, Zahedi's current romance, and the week-long trip's stellar light. But Zahedi stayed in Washington. He said his heavy Washington schedule demanded he cancel, but the shah's rumored displeasure with Zahedi's skyrocketing playboy image may have been the real cause of his cancellation.

Zahedi's chief rival for the public eye is Argentine Ambassador Alejandro Orfila, head of the Organization of American States, who caught headlines in February when he escorted Jackie Onassis to a $3,000-per-box event at Washington's Kennedy Center. Zahedi had no date that night and the flight was to have been his turn to bask in the celebrity sun.

Ms. Christy kept a diary, excerpted here:

By MARIAN CHRISTY

DAY ONE: Passengers are guzzling Dom Perignon and nibbling caviar. A Hollywood mob scene. Photographers are shoving, straining, pushing, clicking.

Movie queen Elizabeth Taylor in an all-wrong, bosom-revealing striped dress, casts love-glances at her man-of-the-hour, Iranian Ambassador Ardeshir Zahedi, 47.

They're a mesh of Movies and Money and the photographers are having a heyday. Liz and Zahedi are basking in the glare of adulation. Although they appear to have eyes only for each other, Zahedi is surreptitiously signaling the next scene.

On the fringe of the crowd appears Cloris Leachman. Suddenly the twosome is a threesome. Click-click. All eyes and all cameras are riveted on the chatty trio. In steps Connie Stevens whose ex-husband, Eddie Fisher, was Liz's fourth husband.

At first no one notices Connie, a brassy blonde in a blue suede Pochonatas outfit with a handkerchief-points hemline. Her agent points her in a strategic direction and now the photographers are click-clicking a foursome. Zahedi and the Hollywood harem.

Liz greets Connie warmly. Zahedi moves forward as if to kiss Connie on each cheek. Impossible: oversized sunglasses sit on her cheeks. One lens has her name etched in diamonds at the very bottom.

Passengers absorbing the picture-taking ceremony include Washington socialite Page Lee Hufty, a Town and Country magazine covergirl said to be Zahedi's "sometime girl friend." Her father is oil-rich. She is supposed to have received two Arabian horses from Jordan's King Hussein, known to admire her blondness, her height and her confidence.

"Oh," she says to her mother, with a sigh, "Ardeshir is such a character with Liz."

Some are calling Zahedi's fling with Liz a "publicity stunt." Some say he is in love.

One friend says they may never see each other again. So that the current Hollywood connection doesn't fade her, Zahedi has extended his fabled generosity to Hufty; he has arranged an extended trip to several Mideast countries for Hufty and her parents.

After a million click-clicks, Lizzie and Zahedi disappear into the plane—she with Scotch on-the-rocks in hand. Zahedi is showing her the "private" area for her entourage; a nutritionist listed only as Dr. Scornone, a bodyguard; her hairdresser and make-up man who teases her jet locks unmercifully and exaggerates her eyebrows with a black pencil. The plane eventually is boarded by champagne-happy passengers and it zooms toward the skies.

During the flight Liz changes into a caftan, changes her make-up (one male passenger who watched the two-hour process described it as "absolutely necessary" because without "the paint Liz is just Diamond Lil.")

When Liz-and-company finally emerge from the cosmetic caper, they edge toward the upstairs lounge. It's crowded. Liz, who's not a mixer, says she needs peace and quiet. She goes back to her seat, applies more make-up.

DAY TWO: Arrival at Mehrabad Airport, Tehran, is geared around Liz, again wearing the black-and-white striped dress to greet the Iranian press. They stampede to get her pictures. Liz's legion of bodyguards, now said to be a blur of the shah's Secret Police and Zahedi's staff, whisk her off into an air-conditioned Mercedes-Benz — one of a fleet said to be at Zahedi's disposal. Other passengers board buses to see more of the land billed as "sunshine, poetry and roses."

Tehran traffic is an uncontrolled maze of undisciplined drivers. A woman on the bus bursts into a chorus of "God Bless America." Streets are filled with Iranian women in depressing black veils and strutting men in suits out the French way to emphasize the male physique. Even in the area of fashion, chauvinism prevails.

Next scene: Niavaran Palace, summer home of the shah and empress. The shah is "away on business" and the empress is "prevalued upon" to greet passengers at a private reception to take place in one hour. Guests are "commanded" to the palace by a voice on the telephone.

gardens of the palace, a sprawling colossus studded with pools and pavilions and small man-made forests.

Security defies imagination. The monarch's plainclothesmen lurk behind trees, columns, furniture.

Liz, the star, is to be the first to meet Her Majesty, the empress, a star of a different order.

A hush falls on the crowd. Empress Farah Diba, wearing an Iranian-designed brocade jacket over a beige midi dress, appears.

The Bible says that the first shall be last and the last shall be first. The empress begins her greeting at the end of the receiving line.

Liz, pressed into first play by her agents, must be last to meet the empress. She can't take her "purple" eyes off Farah Diba, a real-life star who is moving from person-to-person, a constant half-smile on her lips, her aura regal, her presence electric.

At last the two queens meet and Liz is clearly upstaged. The queen is lean and elegant. Liz is short and stocky. The queen has jewels but isn't wearing any. Liz sparkles. The queen's hair is soft and blown-dry. Liz's black hair is teased and sprayed and untouchable.

Meanwhile the empress's oldest daughter, Princess Farahnaz, 12, sticks her head out of an upstairs palace window and aims a long-range-camera lens at Mama and Liz who are sipping a cold drink.

A guard motions to the governess, who tugs the princess back into the palace.

Woodstock Artist's Work on Display at Albany

ALBANY—Assemblyman Maurice D. Hinchey announced that a Bicentennial hanging created by Natalie Vermann of Woodstock will be on display in the Legislative Office Building lobby through July 9.

The eight by 10 foot hanging shows 20 New York State historical events or scenes of interest.

"Essentially," said Ms. Vermann, "I feel that each of us, in our every thought and deed, contributes to the history and the well-being of the state, the nation, the planet, and, of course, each other. The people, places and events that I have chosen to depict in this hanging are only a little more obvious in their contribution, and therefore, historically noteworthy."

derground railroad, the Erie Canal, Franklin Roosevelt, Robert Fulton's "Clermont", Dame Liberty, Henry Hudson, Susan B. Anthony, the Capital building, DeWitt Clinton, Niagara Falls, George DeWitt, the U.N. Building, New York State maps, Alfred E. Smith, and the Empire State Building.

The Legislative Office Building is open weekdays from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., and was open to visitors during the Capital region's July 4 celebration.

DEAR ABBY

First Things First: Is 'Absent Groom' Dead?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was to have been married in the spring, but two weeks before the wedding, the groom took a charter flight to Tucson and did not return.

The authorities and the FAA told us that his plane crashed in Mexico and that he is dead. We have had eight different versions of the plane crash, but as yet, no body was found, and there is no proof that he is dead.

When a wedding is canceled, I know that the bride should return the wedding gifts, but what should we do in a case like this? If it turns out that he is still alive, I am sure she will want to marry him.

Does she have to return the shower gifts, too? PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED: If your daughter's fiancé's plane crashed and he died in the wreckage, there should have been a body identified as his.

Eight different versions of the plane crash? No body? You may need a lawyer to investigate this "crash." First determine whether the absent groom is in fact dead—then worry about the disposition of wedding and shower gifts.

DEAR ABBY: Tell INSULTED not to fret too much about the plumber's wife who doubles as her husband's bookkeeper and who wrote at the bottom of an overdue bill: "Jim doesn't expect to take this out in trade, so please remit."

I have it on good authority that that's the way she pays her dentist's bill. I should know. I'm her dentist. — PAID IN FULL.

DEAR PAID: A man who makes his living from open mouths should have enough sense to keep his shut.

DEAR ABBY: Saw the letter from the woman who had sent thousands of cards to people and was complaining because few people thanked her. She could be a woman I know. She sends me cards for Christmas, Easter, New Year's, St. Patrick's Day, April Fools Day, May Day, Fourth of July, Halloween, my anniversary and birthday, and even Mother's Day! Once I sent her a note to thank her, and she sent me a card to thank me for thanking her!

Then I tried calling her instead, and she kept me on the phone for an hour listening to her health problems and complaints because no one thanks her for her cards. (I can see why they don't.)

She called and asked me for my son's address so she could send cards to him and his wife. They live out of town, she hasn't seen him for six years and she's never met his wife. I may be foolish, but I'm not going to write to thank someone for wishing me a "bang-up Fourth of July," or a "ghoulish Halloween."

Oh, yes, I also received a "farewell" card when I went on my vacation last year and a "welcome home" card when I returned.

Area Ballet Students Invited To Audition for 'Coppelia'

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Area ballet students will have one more opportunity to audition for the New York City Ballet performances at Saratoga Performing Arts Center this summer. Auditions for the ballet "Coppelia," which had its world premiere at Saratoga in 1974, will be held Tuesday, July 6, 11 a.m. David Richardson of the New York City Ballet Company will again conduct the auditions in the main rehearsal hall of the amphitheater.

Children must be between nine and 12 years of age and not more than five feet tall. They must also have had at least two years of ballet training.

Performances of "Coppelia" will be July 22, 24, 28 and 30.

In a new dimension this summer, the center has added an International Dance Film series at the File Center on the Skidmore College Campus. The series of films are from the United States, the USSR, Canada, England, Belgium, France, and will continue each night, 8 p.m., through July 12. The new series is the first of its kind to be presented as a part of the Saratoga Festival. It is being underwritten and operated by the Briansky Ballet Center which makes its summer home in Saratoga.

Yankees Roll Past Indians, 4-3

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Willie Randolph singled home two runs to highlight a three-run second inning and Dock Ellis chalked up his fifth straight victory Sunday night as the New York Yankees scored a 4-3 decision over the Cleveland Indians.

The victory gave the Yankees a 25-9 road record and a nine-game bulge over the second-place Indians in the Eastern Division of the American League. The Yankees sent Ellis off to 3-0 lead in the second off starter and loser Jackie Brown who was seeking his eighth victory of the season. After one out Graig Nettles and Oscar Gamble singled, with both runners moving up on an infield out. Randolph then sliced a single down the right field line, stole second and scored on Jim Mason's base hit to right.

Thurman Munson doubled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Nettles in the sixth while the Indians got their runs on a solo homer by George Hendrick in the second and a pair of homers Rico Carty. It was the 15th of the season for Hendrick and Carty's seventh. Ellis, who scattered seven hits and is now 9-4 for the year, has won more games than he did all last season with Pittsburgh when he posted an 8-9 mark. Sparky Lyle replaced Ellis after Carty's second homer and closed out the game.

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Rick Wise, who pitched a one-hitter in his last start, fired a four-hitter and Cecil Cooper, batting .520 against Milwaukee, hit a two-run homer Sunday to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 triumph over the Brewers.

Wise, raising his record to 7-5, allowed three hits in the first two innings then retired the Brewers in order, except for a walk to Tim Johnson with one out in the fifth and a single by Johnson leading off the eighth. Wise walked three and struck out two. It marked the fourth game this year that he has allowed less than five hits in a complete game victory.

Cooper, who has had 13 hits in 25 at bats against the Brewers, walked and scored Boston's first run in the first inning on Fred Lynn's double, singled in the third and cracked a two run-homer in the fifth.

Pete Broberg allowed just five hits for Milwaukee but had to settle for his seventh loss in eight decisions.

Twins, Angels Split
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Rod Carew hit an eighth inning grand slam homer to offset an earlier grand slam by California's Ron Jackson Sunday and give the Minnesota Twins a 9-5 victory over the Angels for a split of their doubleheader.

Jackson drove in four runs, three of them on a homer, to lead the Angels to a 5-3 triumph in the opener.

In the nightcap, loser Dick Drago loaded the bases on two hit batsmen and a walk in the eighth and reliever Sid Monge got a forceout at the plate before giving up the homer to Carew.

Twins' starter Pete Redfern had a no-hitter until the seventh when Mario Guerrero led off with a single. Redfern then walked the bases loaded before giving way to Vic Albury, who walked in a run. Bill Campbell then took over and gave up a grand slam to Jackson which tied the score at 5-5. Campbell did not allow a hit after giving up the homer to notch his ninth win in 11 decisions.

Rangers, White Sox Split
CHICAGO (UPI) — Bill Fahey's two-run single in the eighth inning gave the Texas Rangers a 3-2 victory in the nightcap Sunday after the Chicago White Sox won the opener 7-6 in 12 innings on Jorge Orta's run-scoring single.

Fahey's hit off loser Chris Knapp, making only his second major league start, staked the Rangers to a 3-0 lead, but Chicago rallied for two runs in the eighth and reliever Joe Hoerner had to pitch out of a jam to save Steve Hargan's third win five decisions.

Brian Downing led off the Chicago eighth with a double and scored on a single by Chet Lemon. Lemon took second on a wild pitch by Hargan and scored on a single by Orta, bringing on Hoerner. Hoerner earned his sixth save by getting Pat Kelly to fly out and striking out Bucky Dent to end the threat.

In the opener, the White Sox, who tied the game with two out in the ninth on Kevin Bell's run-scoring infield hit, won the game in the 12th with the aid of an error by shortstop Toby Harrah. Bill Stein opened the 12th with a double and, out later, Dent grounded to short and was safe when Harrah booted the ball. Stein was out at home when Lemon hit into a fielder's choice but Orta followed with a game-winning hit.

Jim Sundberg's double in the eighth off winner Dave Hamilton gave the Rangers a 6-5 lead after they trailed 3-0 early in the game.

White Sox pitcher Clay Carroll suffered a fracture of the fifth metacarpal on his right hand in an accident at home Saturday night and was placed on the 21-day disabled list Sunday.

Chicago is purchasing the contract of right-handed pitcher John (Blue Moon) Odom from their Triple-A affiliate at Iowa of the American Association. Odom beat Omaha 4-0 Saturday night for his third successive victory. He was obtained by the White Sox from the Atlanta Braves on June 15 in exchange for catcher Pete Varney.

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Mike Norris, attempting to come back from arm surgery that sidelined him most of last year, pitched a three-hitter Sunday to lead the Oakland A's to a 6-0 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

The 21-year-old Norris, who underwent surgery last May to remove bone chips in his pitching elbow and did not return until late September, earned his second win of the season and second career shutout by limiting Kansas City, which entered the game with a major league-leading .286 batting average, to just a double and two singles. Norris struck out three and walked two.

Bert Campaneris gave Oakland a 1-0 lead in the third inning with a single which scored Bill North, who had walked and stolen second.

Oakland erupted for five more runs in the fifth against starter and loser Al Fitzmorris, now 9-5. Joe Rudi's two-run double highlighted the rally. Billy Williams, Larry Haney and North added run-scoring singles.

Orioles 7, Tigers 4
DETROIT (UPI) — Ken Singleton, hitting only .177 right-handed, coaxed a bases loaded walk from lefty reliever John Hiller with one out in the eighth inning Sunday to force in the deciding run and lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Hiller took a one run lead into the eighth but Mark Belanger singled and stole second before Bob Grich walked and Reggie Jackson singled to tie the score at 4-4. Hiller struck out Andres Mora but pinch hitter Lee May was walked intentionally to load the bases before Singleton, who had doubled home a run hitting left-handed off Frank McCormack in the second inning, walked to force in Grich.

Mora doubled home a pair of insurance runs in the ninth inning. Baltimore also scored twice in the fourth, one on a single by Tony Muser in the second on an error by shortstop Tom Verzer.

Wayne Garland went the distance on a seven-hitter and struck out five to win his ninth game in 10 decisions while Hiller suffered his fourth loss in 10 decisions. Two errors by Muser in the first inning gave the Tigers two runs and the Detroit added two more in the fifth inning when Dan Meyer hit his first of the season after Ron LeFlore singled.

Expos 4, Cards 3

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Pitcher Don Stanhouse singled home a run and scored on an error by left fielder Lou Brock in a three-run second inning then combined with Dale Murray on a seven-hitter Sunday to lead the Montreal Expos to a 4-3 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Montreal, which snapped a 20-inning scoreless streak with a run in the first inning, took a 4-0 lead in the second inning after Barry Foote and Gary Roenicke singled. Stanhouse followed with a single, scoring Foote, and Pepe Manguel then doubled in Roenicke. When Brock fumbled the hit in left field, Stanhouse also scored.

St. Louis scored once in the third inning then tightened the game up at 4-3 with two runs in the fourth with the help of two Montreal errors. Mike Tyson singled and came around to score on losing pitcher Pete Falcone's single. An error enabled Falcone to go to second, Jerry Mumphy singled and Falcone scored on a throwing error by Roenicke.

Giants 3, Braves 2
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pinch-hitter Gary Thomasson's sacrifice fly scored Darrel Evans from third base in the sixth inning Sunday to lift the San Francisco Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Evans opened the sixth with a single off starter and loser Frank LaCorte, 0-2. Mike Marshall replaced LaCorte and the first batter he faced, Ken Rietz, moved Evans up to second on a sacrifice bunt. Chris Speier singled to advance Evans to third and Thomasson's fly to center delivered the winning run.

Rookie Rob Dressler, 2-6, went the first six innings for the victory and Randy Moffitt held the Braves scoreless over the final three innings for his fifth save.

Mets' Streak Stops at 10 As Cubs Rally for Split

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pitcher Ray Burris' sacrifice bunt turned into a double error which allowed two runs to score in the seventh inning Sunday, enabling the Chicago Cubs to snap a nine-game losing streak and end the New York Mets' 10-game winning streak with a 4-2 victory in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

The Mets established their longest winning streak since 1972 by winning the opener 9-4 as Mike Phillips, Bud Harrelson and relief pitcher Skip Lockwood each drove in a pair of runs.

The Cubs led 2-1 on Mick Kelleher's two-run single in the fourth inning when loser Mickey Lolich issued a lead off walk to Kelleher in the seventh inning. Burris then laid down a sacrifice bunt and Lolich fielded the ball and threw it over the head of first baseman Ed Kranepool. When Kelleher attempted to score, right fielder Dave Kingman picked up the overthrow and threw past catcher Jerry Grote into the Chicago dugout allowing both runners to score.

The Mets had their best threat in the seventh when Mike Vail and Bruce Bonclair stung Burris for consecutive bunt singles. Mike Phillips then a potential double play grounder to short, but shortstop Dave Rosello booted the ball allowing one run to score. Burris, however, went on to record his first complete game in 19 starts and post his fourth win in 14 decisions.

In the opener, the Mets took advantage of only six hits to tag Bill Bonham with his sixth loss in 12 decisions. Craig Swan, with relief help from Lockwood, won his fifth game against seven losses. Lockwood, in addition to hitting a two run double in a four run eighth inning, pitched three innings of hitless relief to gain his ninth save.

Rick Monday accounted for two of the Cubs' runs with his 14th homer of the season in the fifth inning.

Phillies, Pirates Split
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Robertson's two-run triple capped a six-run seventh inning and Bruce Kison and Bob Moose combined on a five-hitter to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-1 triumph in the nightcap Sunday after the Philadelphia Phillies won the first game, 10-5.

Tim McCarver's apparent grand slam homer, which became a three-run single when he passed a baserunner, highlighted a four-run second inning for the Phillies in their opening game triumph.

Every starting Pirate collected a hit in the second game and four besides Robertson had one RBI each, but Al Oliver, the league's leading hitter, was only 1-for-7.

on the day after collecting eight hits in his previous nine at-bats.

Kison, 7-4, gave up two hits and blanked the Phillies over the first seven innings and Moose gave up the lone run in the ninth when the Phillies put together three straight singles after two were out. Jim Kaat, 8-3, was tagged with his first loss since May 12, although the six-run Pirate spurt came off reliever Gene Garber.

In the first game, McCarver hit what appeared to be a grand slam homer in the fourth but was called out when he passed baserunner Garry Maddox between first and second.

Winner Steve Carlton, 8-3, gave up six hits and five runs before he was relieved by Ron Reed after 6 2-3 innings. The loser was Larry Demery, 5 2, the first of four Pirate pitchers.

Tommy Helms pinch-hit a two-run homer, and Bill Robinson added a solo shot for the Pirates.

Padres 5, Dodgers 2
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dave Winfield capped a three-run third inning with a solo homer Sunday and Randy Jones went on to post his 15th win of the season in pitching the San Diego Padres to a 5-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Jones, who has lost only three games, scattered nine hits in beating the Dodgers for the second time and tied the National League record for most wins before the All-Star break. Jones struck out only one but did not walk a batter in besting Tommy John, who evened his record at 5-5.

The Padres added a run in the fifth inning on Mike Ivey's run-scoring single and Winfield doubled home another run in the ninth.

The Dodgers scored in the fourth on a run-scoring double by Bill Buckner and added a run in the ninth on a run-scoring single by Bill Russell.

Reds 7, Astros 2
CINCINNATI (UPI) — Johnny Bench hit a tie breaking two run single in the fifth inning and George Foster added a three run homer, his fourth hit of the game, in the eighth Sunday to power the Cincinnati Reds to 7-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

Yarborough Captures Firecracker

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Cale Yarborough, a 37-year-old Timmonville, S.C., veteran, broke his streak of "bad luck" Sunday to win the $170,000 Firecracker 400 stock car race going away before a holiday crowd of 70,000.

Yarborough, who started in the second position in the starting grid, traded the lead several times during the first part of the race with Bobby Allison, a Chevrolet driver from Hueytown, Ala. But Yarborough's Chevrolet finally broke away from Allison and four-time Firecracker winner David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., on the 146th lap. His average speed was 160.936 miles per hour.

Yarborough beat the second place Pearson by eight seconds. Allison finished third and A.J. Foyt of Houston was fourth. Coo Coo Marlin of Columbia, Tenn., was fifth.

"I'm as hot as a firecracker and mighty tired," said the blond Yarborough in victory lane.

"My crew sure did a lot to keep me in it," he added. "Everything worked all the way. I knew that if I could get Pearson and Allison together, I might have been able to get away and that's what happened."

Yarborough, who is a county commissioner in South Carolina, Allison and Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., moved out in front in the early stages of the race, trading the lead 11 times among themselves during the first 20 laps.

On the second turn of the 32nd lap, Baker, driving a Ford, blew his engine, spun out and spewed oil onto the track. Eight cars behind him skidded off the track and two drivers were injured in the pileup.

Hill Takes Top Prize In Milwaukee Tourney

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Dave Hill contributed some fireworks of his own to the Bicentennial celebration Sunday as he fired a three-under-par 69 to win the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open by three strokes over hard-charging Johnny Jacobs.

Hill and the other pros pummeled par on the rolling 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course and he finished 18-under to win the $26,000 first prize. It was his 13th victory since joining the tour in 1959.

Hill started the day 15-under-par with a four shot lead over Homero Blancas and five shots over Jacobs, Ed Sneed and Fuzzy Zoeller. Hill and Jacobs played in the same threesome and Jacobs made a run at Hill as he birdied the last three holes.

But Hill's advantage was too great and he cast out any doubt of whom the winner would be when he also birdied the final hole.

Sneed shot a two-under-par 69 and tied for third with Dave Eichelberger at 12 under. Eichelberger tied the course record in the final round as he shot a nine-under-par 63 to vault himself among the leaders. Blancas shot one-over-par 73 and tied for fifth with Bob E. Smith while Zoeller quickly dropped as he shot a five-over-par 41 on the front nine and finished with a seven-over 79.

Although the big names on the pro tour once again bypassed the ninth annual GMO because the British Open is next week, the field blasted par as 45 golfers finished below par in the tournament and nine golfers tied it.

Hill was the biggest par-buster and carried a five shot lead into the final day. Despite his lead, he said he was worried that he could lose the tournament.

"It was sort of a tough day," said Hill. He played with Sneed and Jacobs and both made short but unsuccessful runs at him.

"I wasn't worried about Johnny, I was worried about Ed because he was swinging a beautiful club," said Hill.

But it was Jacobs, a little known tour veteran, who made the biggest run as he birdied the last three holes. However, Jacobs said he wasn't playing to catch Hill, but to make sure he finished ahead of Sneed.

"I knew what the difference was between second place and third place," said Jacobs. "I picked up $14,820."

Eichelberger and Sneed each won $7,670.

Hill had two birdies on the first nine, but had a bogey on No. 10. He was worried that his game might be slipping and said his game turned around on No. 12 when he made a birdie and Jacobs only made par.

He bogeyed 13, but came back with another birdie on 14 and said he felt then that it was all over.

Hill has been on the tour since 1959 and he says winning is no longer the most important thing in his life.

"Winning is fun. But if you don't win, it's no big deal. And if you do win, who is really going to care in 20 years?" said Hill.

"The fun of it is playing the game. It's a trying game that tests your nerves and patience."

Hill said playing in the final round was "not as much fun" as the first three days because of the pressure from Jacobs and Sneed, although the calm and cool Hill didn't seem rattled a bit.

Jacobs complimented Hill for not playing conservatively despite his big lead.

"Dave Hill is a hell of a player. He never played safe once," said Jacobs.

Hunt Drives McLaren To Grand Prix Win

LE CASTELLET, France (UPI) — James Hunt of Britain picked up his first official Formula One win this season Sunday, driving his red and white Marlboro McLaren to victory in the 62nd French Grand Prix.

He covered 195.99 miles on southern France's twisting mountaintop Paul Ricard race-track in one hour, 40 minutes, 58.60 seconds.

The dark green, six-wheeled Tyrrell of Frenchman Patrick Depailler was second and in a late shuffle John Watson of Ireland brought his Penske in third. But Watson was disqualified by race organizers afterwards and Brazilian Carlos Pace, who drove a Brabham, moved into third place.

The race wasn't going in Hunt's favor at its start. Austrian world driving champion Niki Lauda neutralized Hunt's pole position advantage in the first lap by jumping into the lead in his sleek red Ferrari.

For a short time Lauda continued to push distance between himself and the rest of the pack on this pine-covered hilltop when his engine blew up.

Then, with Hunt in the lead, Lauda's teammate Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland put on a furious chase to catch the fast Briton. But as the race neared the end of its first-third, Regazzoni spun into a guard rail and with the Ferraris out there was no challenger left to take on the Marlboro McLaren.

After taking the first six Formula One races this season, it was the second straight loss for the Ferraris.

The best race on the track Sunday was for third through sixth places. Jody Scheckter of South Africa in the number two Tyrrell and Ronnie Peterson of Sweden in a March slugged it out with Watson and Pace until the closing minutes.

Peterson, in third place with two laps to go, took a sudden dive from third to 19th position after he ran his car out of gas. Scheckter's furious battle with Peterson ended shortly before when a valve snapped in his engine.

The South African vainly limped on as Watson, American Mario Andretti in a Lotus and Pace steadily crept up on him for five laps until they overtook him. Andretti finished fifth with Scheckter sixth.

It's Palmer by One In LPGA Tourney

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Sandra Palmer won the $50,000 LPGA Bloomington Bicentennial Tournament with a four-under-par 209 Sunday, beating Laura Baugh and JoAnne Carner by one stroke.

Tied for fourth were Judy Rankin and Donna Young with one-under-par 212s.

Rankin missed becoming the first woman this soon to earn $100,000 on tour in one year. She is $615 short going into next week's U.S. Open at Bowling Green Country club in Springfield, Pa.

Rankin shot a 70 Sunday after a pair of 71s. Palmer and Carner were tied going into Sunday's final round at the Lake Monroe Golf Club.

The day's best rounds were a pair of 68s by Ai-Yu Tu and Chako Higuchi. Tu finished sixth place with an even-par 213. Higuchi finished tied for 18th with 218.

Palmer earned $7,000 for her first place, while Baugh and Carner earned $4,400 in their tie for second.

This was Palmer's first win of the year and a timely one, since she is the defending Open champion.

Palmer, 35, Del Ray Beach, Fla., bogeyed the final hole and almost ended up in disaster. Her third shot missed the green and got into a trap. She knocked up onto the grass and putted for a bogey.

She had birdies on holes 11 and 16 coming home. She was one-over on the front side, since she bogeyed the sixth hole. She hit a 12-foot putt on 11 for a birdie. On 16 she hit a 10-footer.

Baugh hurt herself when she bogied 17th. She was three-under going into 17 and three-putted that hole. She birdied 18. She missed a makeable eagle putt, about 10 feet, on the 18th. Carner's only birdie was hole 12. She bogeyed the two par-fives on the front side.

Ali Leaving Hospital, To Continue Traveling

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Heavyweight boxing champ Muhammad Ali, his blood clots dissolved by medication and his broken blood vessels mending, will be released from St. John's Hospital today to take his bandaged legs to Wounded Knee, S.D.

At a news conference held at the hospital Sunday, Ali said he would accompany actor Marlon Brando on a plane trip to attend the trial of two American Indians accused of murder in connection with the shooting of two FBI agents on the Pine Ridge, S.D., reservation last summer.

The trial, underway at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, resumes Tuesday. Ali said he sympathizes with the plight of the American Indian.

If all goes according to plan, Ali then will travel to Istanbul, Turkey later this month to accept a 500-acre parcel of land and a home offered to him by that country's government.

"I feel good," Ali told reporters, adding that it may take some time to determine if his boxing career will be affected by his injuries. "But my doctors have told me that I'll always have sore spot. There will always be something wrong with it (left leg)."

Ali limped into St. John's Hospital Thursday complaining of severe leg pains resulting from his martial arts exhibition match in Tokyo June 24 with Japanese wrestler Antonio Inoki.

His doctors reported that Ali had suffered "severe muscle damage and severe anemia" along with minor blood clots in both knees. Ali underwent a series of whirlpool baths and medication.

Ali's next challenger to his heavyweight crown, Ken Norton, paid a visit to the hospital Sunday and the champ clowned with him.

LITTLE LEAGUE

KINGSTON — Ann Houghtaling and Sandy Hoffman each drove in three runs to lead the Orioles to a 9-6 win over the Penguins in the Jaycee Little League. The decision gave the winners a 10-2 record, the second half championship, and overall first place in the girls' junior division.

The Orioles also took the first half race. They finished ahead of the Penguins who were 8-4, the Doves, 4-8, and the Falcons, 2-10.

Paula DeGraff slammed a double for the Orioles who scored all but one of their runs in the fifth inning to overcome a 6-1 Penguin lead. Kim Scarey struck out six to get the win.

IOC Director Is Confident

MONTREAL (UPI) — Monique Berlioux, executive director of the International Olympic Committee, Sunday predicted the 1976 Games would go on as scheduled beginning July 17 despite Canada's stand on Taiwan.

"But I can't make any comment on a possible settlement now," she said. "We have to await developments over the next few days and see what happens."

A series of meetings will be held by the 72-member international committee this week following the arrival of IOC President Lord Killanin Monday afternoon. But officials said no meetings between the IOC and Canadian government officials had yet been scheduled.

Berlioux said she had nothing further to add to an IOC statement Friday that said reports the committee might withdraw its official sanction of the Games were incorrect. "Two years ago when I was here in Montreal I predicted that facilities would be ready in time and that the Games would go on as scheduled," Berlioux said. "I am still confident they will."

A statement issued by the IOC in Lausanne, Switzerland, Thursday raised speculation the Summer Olympics might be threatened if an agreement on the China issue could not be reached with Canada.

The IOC accused the Canadian government of violating basic Olympic principles against discrimination by refusing Taiwanese athletes entry to the country if they insisted on identifying themselves as the Republic of China, the name recognized by the IOC.

The Canadian government took the stand after severing relations with Nationalist China and recognizing the People's Republic of China (Peking) in 1970.

'Image Is Tarnished,' Says Lord Killanin

LONDON (UPI) — Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, said Sunday the Olympic Games have been damaged by Montreal's spiralling costs and the "political interference" of the Canadian government.

"I think the image of the Olympics has been tarnished because of this," Killanin said in an interview with the BBC. "I agree there has been a damaging effect because of escalating costs and political interference."

Killanin said he hoped the Canadian government would change its mind and allow Taiwan athletes to compete. "We have already had several protests from international (spo) federations who recognize the Republic of China (Taiwan) as a member," Killanin said.

"But I would not make any threats or sanctions until I have seen other members of the IOC and discussed the problem with the federations," said Killanin, who was scheduled to fly to Montreal Monday with the Irish Olympic team.

Harvard Freshmen Take Thames Cup

HENLEY, England (UPI) — The Harvard freshmen eight, whose ranks include four men with no previous rowing experience, Sunday came from behind to win the prized Thames Eight Challenge Cup of the Henley Regatta.

They shared the glory of the final moments of the 1976 regatta with the light-weight eight of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., which rowed through a sudden thunderstorm to take the Ladies Plate trophy for college eights.

Both races were close. Harvard—whose bow, numbers two and three oarsmen plus the coxswain never rowed before this year—defeated the hometown Henley Rowing Club by a canvas. Henley conquered the University of Pennsylvania by 1-1/2 lengths in the semifinal. Harvard's semifinal victim was the speedy Christiania of Norway.

As anxious Henley stewards hustled the Harvard crew toward the award ceremony by Princess Alexandra of Kent, Harvard Coach Ted Washburn said happily of his young crew: "They have amazed me every time. They have come from behind in every race. It's cardiac arrest. But they deliver what I ask." It was nerve-racking too for the eight of Trinity College, Hartford. They beat their namesake Trinity College of Dublin in the semifinal by one length after the heat was delayed more than one hour while the Irish crew repaired a cracked rigger they had just discovered.

In the final Trinity took Queen's University of Belfast by 1-1/3 lengths in a time of 6:46—22 seconds off the event record Trinity set Friday.

"We got out of a lot of trouble in that one and the boys showed they could really do it," said Coach Norman Graf. "We are all thrilled at winning Henley."

Holy Spirit High School of Absecon, N.J., America's third winner Sunday, took the Schools eights trophy by defeating Emanuel School of England by two-thirds of a length.

Holy Spirit coxswain Tim Dwyer, 16, said: "It's the best race we've ever raced. We are undefeated this year. We just gotta hand it to Stan Bergman, who's a fantastic coach."

This was Holy Spirit's second win of the event. They took it last time they came to Henley in 1975.

Just How Good Is Meadow Bright?

By UPI

Just how good is Meadow Bright, the trotting mama who will represent the United States with the sub-par Savor in the $200,000 International at Roosevelt Raceway on Saturday? Better than Delmonica Hanover, says Del Miller, the training wizard who developed both great trotting mares.

Delmonica, co-owned and trained by Miller, won back to back Internationals in 1973 and '74, capturing "Horse of the Year" honors in 1974 when she won the two big trots for aged top class campaigners by also annexing France's prestigious Prix d'Amerique with the International title.

Nonetheless, Miller, who will be 63 Monday, and enjoying another brilliant year with his quality stable, says Meadow Bright is a little better than Delmonica. Miller offered this appraisal after Meadow Bright, who is four (the age Delmonica won her first International), handled the field of the best United States trotters so easily in the $50,000 American Trotting Championship last Saturday at Roosevelt. Meadow Bright, sold by Miller and partner Hugh A. Grant of Bradford, Pa., to John Simpson of the Hanover Shoe Farm in Hanover, Pa., for $175,000 last summer, trotted the mile in 2:01-4/5, easily beating the fast finishing Keystone Pioneer by three-quarters of a length.

Noble Rogue was another three-quarters back in third. Meadow Bright paid $5.20, $3.20 and $2.80 across the board.

The high appraisal of Meadow Bright by Miller has some curious aspects. The mare is not 100 per cent sound and she is better than 60 days in foal to the Hanover stallion Speedy Court.

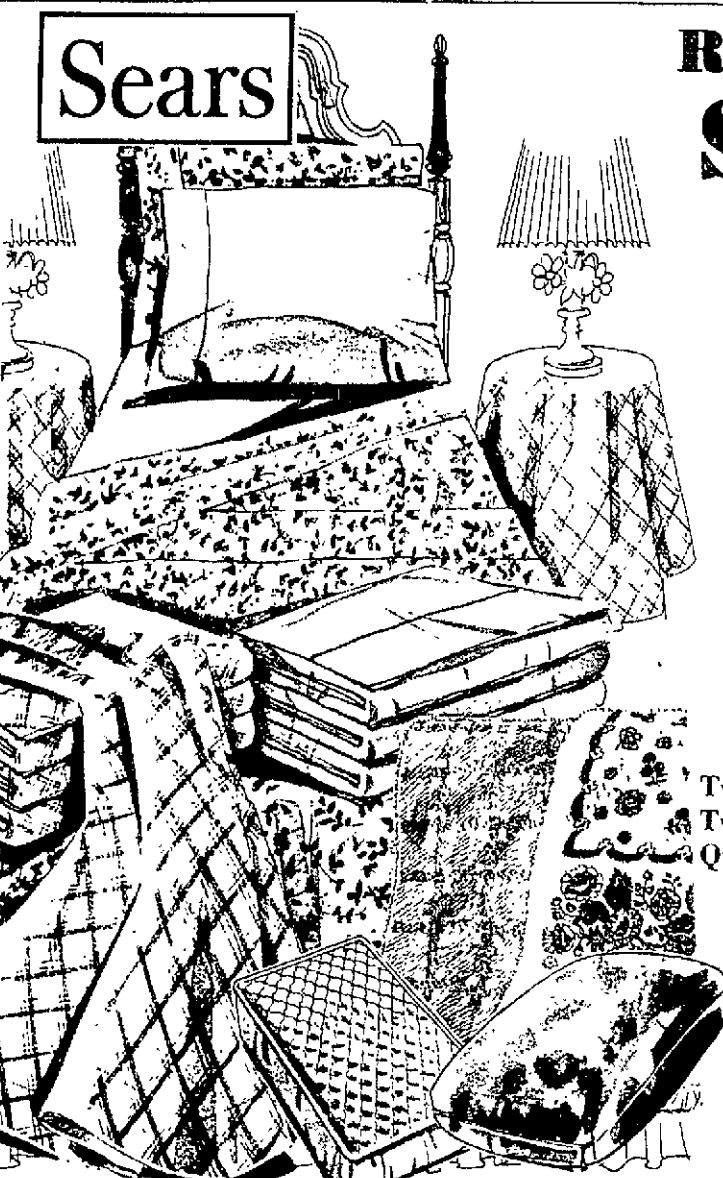

In Goshen, N.Y., Sunday, where he is lodged for the annual week of Grand Circuit Racing at Historic Track, Miller commented that Meadow Bright was lame in Florida last winter and this was the reason he was bred to Speedy Court. After the mating, Miller brought her back into training and she raced herself back.

Northfield Park, near Cleveland, assembled a field for the top pacing fillies and mares, the $25,000 Betsy Ross, to settle some sort of supremacy with this group. Unfortunately, the track was off. Silk Stockings covered the sloppy course in 2:02-1/5 for the mile, with Preston Burris Jr. in the sulky. Silk Stockings, last year's Pacer of the Year in the United States Trotting Association Poll, beat Handle With Care by 1-1/2 lengths with Missouri

Time another neck back. Silk Stockings paid $4.00, $2.80 and $2.60.

Sporting Goods Boom Hits Home

Freeman Staff

KINGSTON—The sporting goods store, once the supplier to a relatively small number of serious, young athletic minded men, has now become the shopping center for even the most casual sportsman, woman or child.

The boom in American sport and sports equipment has crossed age, sex and class distinctions to produce one of the largest and most sophisticated consumer markets in the country.

The largest customer block in the sporting goods industry, according to Kingston merchants, is the elementary through high school age student in addition to playing for school teams, many of these youngsters participate in the scores of leagues offered in almost all team sports.

An advertisement by one Hudson Valley store "Specializing in team outfitting—Complete line of trophies," is not unusual.

"Only in the last few years have the kids gotten so involved in uniforms and looking like a team," observes Frank Cohen, proprietor of Frank's Ski and Sports Shop on North Front Street. Youngsters today also seem intent on outfitting themselves with the most up-to-date and reliable equipment possible he says.

"Kids are very well versed in new equipment, they know the products," says Cohen.

The younger athletes are not the only ones concerned with quality.

"People in general are looking for the best brands and not just buying a department store name," says John Lang of the Sears-Roebuck sporting goods department in Kingston Plaza. Dan Potter of Potter Brothers, Kingston, agrees, "people want only the top name."

Even in sports as casual as bicycling or jogging, enthusiasts are turning out in the best money can buy. Fashion has also become a major factor to those who take their exercise seriously.

"People just don't buy blue or gray sweats anymore, they want bright colors and stripes," says Lang.

Most sports authorities agree that this is a healthy trend. As Mike Spada, who, with cousin Mike R. Spada, operates Spadda's Sports Shop on Broadway, affirms "the latest is the safest."

"The schools have become more conscious of safety. Teaching the kids to use the best equipment for them is part of education," says Pete Kramer, owner of Kaye Sports on Wall Street.

Not prone to lag behind, women of all ages are just as much a part of the sports buying public as the male of the species.

"The girls are into everything. Because the schools have opened the athletic programs to them they are now participating," says Kramer.

"I never thought I would see the day when a young lady would come in here, pick up a mitt and give it a good slam," relates Frank Cohen.

Spada has found what he considers to be an astonishing increase of "least 20 per cent" in women applying for hunting and fishing licenses through his store.

Most of the sporting goods merchants agreed with Spada who feels today's woman "is going out and participating right along with her man."

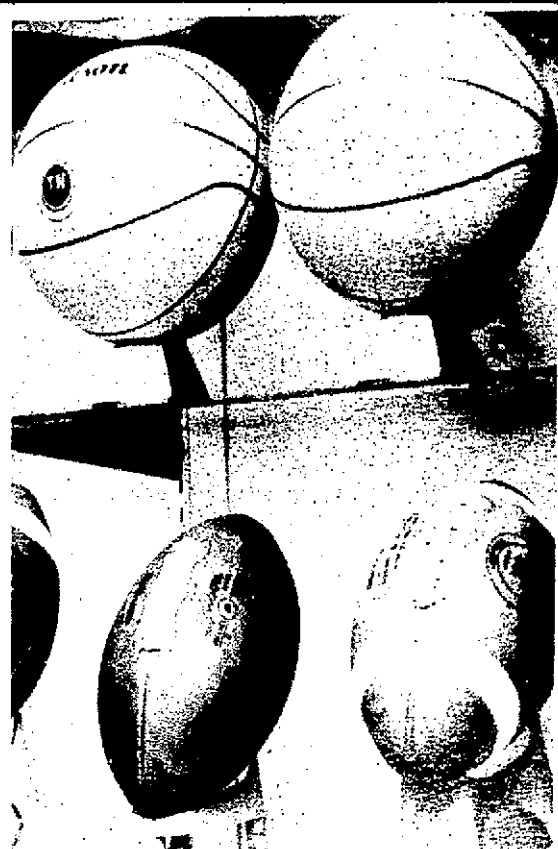

Manufacturers have been quick in picking up on the emerging women's market. Companies that did little more than offer powder blue golf bags for the ladies now carry everything from entire lines of sporting shoes for women to special chest protectors for female catchers.

Sporting goods store owners in Kingston also report a significant rise in the number of people who take up new sports in middle age. Cohen credits slow pitch softball with bringing "the 40 and 50 year olds back into athletics."

Equipment for camping, boating, fishing, track, tennis and virtually all the popular team sports are being purchased by people who have never taken part in the activity or have seen a good many years since the last time they have. "More people are involved in more sports than ever before," Cohen sums up.

Unlike other luxury industries that have experienced hard times in recent economic lulls, the sporting goods business has remained stable and in most places has grown.

Although few merchants would go quite as far as Dan Potter, who believes "recreation is at the top of people's list, second only to eating," nobody is complaining of a depressed market.

Redman Strives for Double In Watkins Glen Events

NEW YORK (UPI) — Britain's Brian Redman strives for a double this weekend when he appears in the beefed-up Formula 5000 series and the Six Hours of Endurance race at the upstate New York Watkins Glen Grand Prix motor course.

Redman's first effort is on Saturday with a BMW team that trails the Porsche factory by four points in the race for the prestigious manufacturers' championship. The winning team gets 20 points in the standings.

On Sunday, Redman guns for his second straight F-5000 victory at the Glen. The Briton is defending champion in the series, which he has won the last two years.

Two other events are on tap at the 3.77-mile circuit — a Trans-Am race which will run in conjunction with the Six Hours and the Robert Bosch Gold Cup event on Sunday. George Follmer, a former CanAm champion, makes his debut in the open wheel Super Vee series.

The Formula 5000 features the series' largest field of the year, with at least four new entries, including Formula One Grand Prix driver Brett Lunter of Wilmington, Del. Another possible entry is Pocono 500 mile winner Al Unser.

Indianapolis 500 Rookie of the Year Vern Schuppan will drive Dan Gurney's Eagle. The New Zealander won the Australian F-5000 championship last winter which earned him a ride in the American series.

The international flavor of the race is apparent with Graham McRae and Warwick Brown from Down Under and Britons Jackie

Oliver and Peter Gethin.

Californian Sam Posey, who may retire from active driving after years as an Indy, F-5000 and sport car wheelman to pursue an art program; Danny Ongais, Alan Jones and Bruce Allison are other drivers entered in the race.

In the Six Hours grind, Porsche and BMW split the first four races in this year's series. Le Mans winner Jacky Ickx and Jochen Mass won the opener for Porsche in Mugello, Italy, on March 21 and repeated in the Vallelunga, Italy, race on April 4. BMW retaliated when John Fitzpatrick and Tom Walkinshaw triumphed at Silverstone, England, on May 9 and the team of Albrecht Krebs-Dieter Quester scored at Nurburgring, Germany, on May 30.

Redman, Fitzpatrick and Walkinshaw are teamed in one of the BMW cars, while Krebs, Dieter and Ronnie Peterson of Sweden group in another BMW. Posey is a backup driver if needed.

The Jacksonville, Fla., tandem of Peter Gregg and Hurley Haywood are in a third BMW. Haywood, incidentally, leads the Trans-Am series with 40 points.

Tom Bagley, a two-time Bosch winner, heads the Gold Cup series with 40 points.

Gregg is the winningest driver on the International Motor Sports Association circuit and his triumphs are equally legendary in the Sports Car Club of America record book. A Harvard grad, Gregg has three victories in the 24 Hours of Daytona and won four Camel GT Challenge titles.

A Stiff Challenge For Olympic Cagers

MONTICELLO (UPI) — The U.S. Olympic basketball team faces what might be its stiffest challenge prior to the Montreal Games when it meets a squad of National Basketball Association players, including Nate Archibald and Spencer Haywood, in a match Wednesday at Kutscher's Country Club.

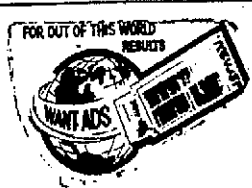

The Olympians have blitzed through five opponents of a six-game exhibition schedule, posting impressive wins over the Denver Nuggets, the Israeli and Spanish national teams and two pro all star squads. The lone loss came at the hands of the Nuggets.

Joining Archibald, of the Kansas City Kings, and Haywood, of the New York Knicks, will be Steve Mix of the Philadelphia 76ers, Chris Ford of the Detroit Pistons, Jim Clemons of the Cleveland Cavaliers and Kim Hughes and Al Skinner of the New York Nets.

The coach will be Gene Shue of the 76ers.

The Olympians, who are led by college player of the year Scott May of Indiana, Notre Dame All-America forward Adrian Dantley and North Carolina guard Phil Ford, will compete as the top seeded team in the B bracket up in Montreal. Defending gold medalist Russia will be the top seed in the A bracket.

Navy Can Thank Hart

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—The United States Naval Academy can thank Kingston, N.Y., resident Doug Hart for the dramatic improvement in the fortunes of its sailing team this past season.

Thanks to Doug's impressive performances in both dinghy and Laser competition, the varsity sailing team, which began unrated in the fall of 1975, moved up to the No. 3 team in the nation by the end of the recently-concluded spring season.

Hart, the dinghy team captain, earned All-America honors via his selection by the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association of North America. He credits his father David of Kingston for much of his success, noting the experience he gained sailing with his father on the Hudson River in the Flying Dutchman, an Olympic Class sailboat.

Hart has accepted a coaching post with the Naval Academy and is coaching the sailing team at the present in Bermuda. At the end of the summer he will return to the Naval Academy as fall sailing coach for the Plebe dinghy team.

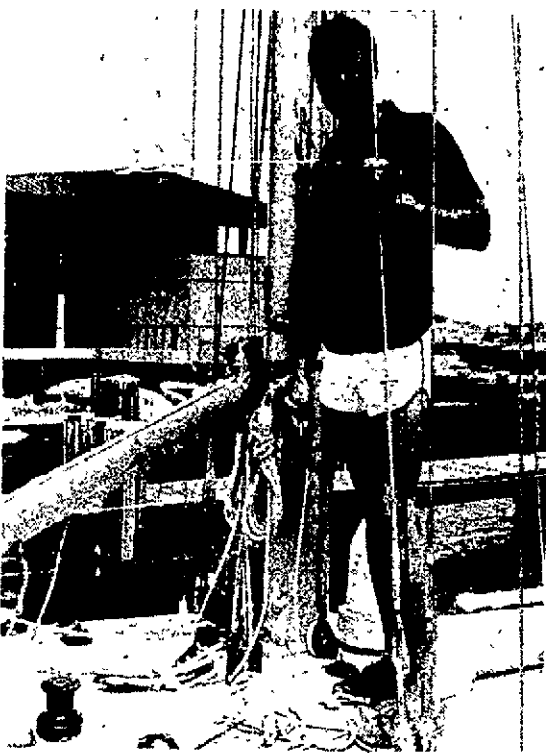

Hart and his teammates captured the first dinghy area elimination in mid-March, then finished sixth in the Boston Dinghy Cup, fourth in the Admiral McClintock Cup, fifth in the Friis Trophy, fourth in the Owens Trophy Cup and second in the American Trophy for the Mid-Atlantic Sailing Association (MAISA) District championship.

Hart stood out in the single-handed competition, capturing first place in the area eliminations in late March and winning out over a field of 14 sailors to win the MAISA single-handed championships two weeks later. It was that victory that earned him his No. 1 rating in the Mid-Atlantic region and the All-America honor.

He also placed second in the national single-handed championships Foster Trophy Regatta and with his teammates, seventh in the Moras Trophy Paired Dinghy Regatta. Those two events marked the first time in five years that the Naval Academy has competed nationally in either the single-handed or paired dinghy categories.

"Just being able to go to the Nationals," said Doug, "to be able to compete there and to do well... we had come close the last two years, but this year we made it and it was terrific!"

Doug Hart

Horseshoes: From Folklore to Int'l Status

NEW YORK (UPI) — Created by the Romans perhaps out of boredom, nurtured by the English, and finding new roots in the United States, the game of horseshoes has progressed from folklore to international tournament status.

As the Roman legions spread their iron mantle over

Palestine, Egypt, Spain, France and England, the militia, like countless thousands of G.I.'s that manned lonely outposts in later years, tried to make camp life more interesting.

The shod hooves of the Roman cavalry provided the material for passing the idle hours.

Some say the Greeks predated the Romans in a similar version of the game. As legend has it, one of the events in the early Olympic games was the throwing of a stone discus. The object was a heavy rock with a strap inserted through a hole in the center of the missile. Using the thong as leverage, the contestant heaved the stone at a stake.

Roman soldiers later collected discarded horseshoes, drove stakes into the ground and a new game was born.

At a later date, the English repulsed the Romans, got rid of their architecture, their soldiers and their cavalry. They kept the horseshoes.

Today's game transcends international geographical and age barriers. The oldsters have accumulated the skill and the youngsters have the energy of thoroughbred horses.

An estimated 1,000 worshippers of the 2½-pound projectiles will gather at Bristol Township, Pa., July 30-Aug. 8 for the World Horseshoe Pitching Championships. They are proven marksmen in the junior, intermediate and senior classes.

Talk about Joe DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak, or Danny Villaneuva booting 56 consecutive extra points, Ted Allen holds the record of 72 straight ringers around the stake that stands 40 feet away from the throwing lane.

Several years ago, a pro basketball star and a major leaguer tested their accuracy. In 300 tosses, they managed a total of three ringers.

By comparison, the horseshoe experts average 75 per cent ringers on their throws.

New Post for Colclough

KINGSTON—Southampton College athletic official James Colclough, a former Kingston resident, has been appointed circuit tour director for the American Express Card Challengers Circuit's Eastern Division.

Colclough, 39, is the Director of Athletics and Physical Education at the college and has coached the golf team to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District II championship and the basketball team to the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II semifinals.

He formerly coached at Arlington High School in Poughkeepsie, developing league champions in basketball. In September, he assumes the post of athletic director and basketball coach at C.W. Post College on Long Island.

"I have taught and been involved with tennis for the last eight years," he said, "and I've become interested in its administration. I see the value in tennis for youngsters and I see the possibilities ahead of the game."

The Eastern Division has six tournaments in July and August in New Hampshire, Vermont, New York and New Jersey, and the Western Division competes at the same time in Oregon, the state of Washington and British Columbia, Canada. The national championship is Sept. 10 at Forest Hills.

Colclough, whose family includes his wife Marie and three children, has taught tennis and other physical education classes at Southampton and it is there that his interest in tennis was sparked.

Operation Sail A Success

Ford Reviews 'Armada'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Millions lined the shores and streets of New York Sunday for the nation's biggest birthday celebration as an armada of naval ships and sailing vessels from across the world churned through the harbor for a presidential review.

Vice President Nelson A.

Rockefeller and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger boarded the USS Wainwright, a 347-foot guided missile cruiser and the flagship of history's fourth International Naval Review, shortly after noon.

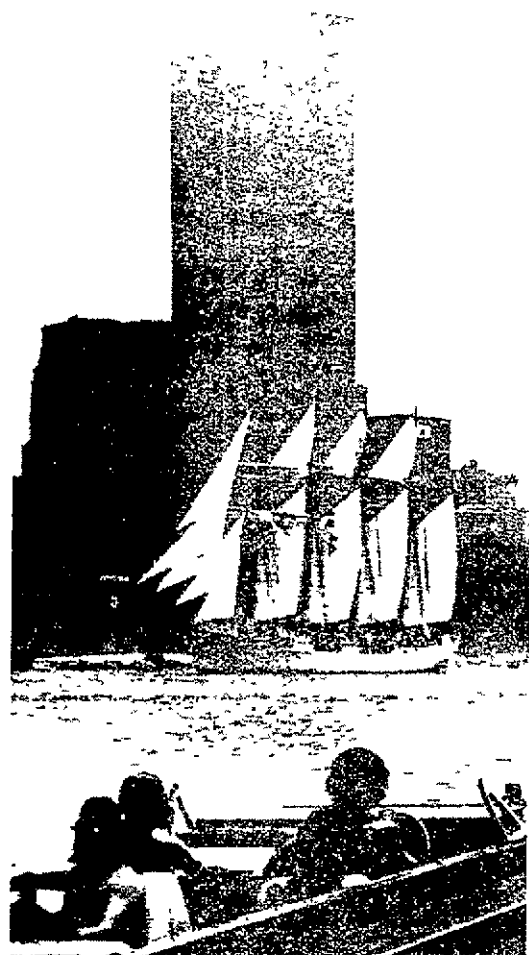

President Ford arrived aboard the USS Forrestal later in the day to cap his observance of Independence Day.

Police refused to estimate the number of shipwatchers along the Manhattan shore but unofficial sources said it was in the millions. Police did say at least 1 million spectators stood in the midday sun on Brooklyn's Shore Parkway. Hawkers in cutoff jeans, some wearing sailor caps, put a bicentennial label on everything from T-shirts to binoculars and did a brisk business among spectators.

Huge crowds lined the shores of Manhattan from the Battery to the George Washington Bridge — an 11 mile stretch — to see the tall ships and the display of naval strength they have read about for weeks.

Most were unable to get near the water's edge and settled for little more than a distant glimpse of the masts of England's Great Britain II, Italy's Amerigo Vespucci, Germany's Gorch Fock, or the four-masted, 378-foot Soviet bark, the Kruzenshtern, some of the standouts among the 227 sailing ships.

The more affluent chartered private boats at prices ranging up to $1,000 for the day.

TALL SHIP— The lower Manhattan skyline looms on the horizon Sunday as small craft and one tall ship enter the harbor during Operation Sail.

The Navy Chaplain's Corps began Nov. 28, 1775. Navy regulations ordered that "The commanders of the ships of the 13 United Colonies are to take care that divine service be performed twice a day on board and a sermon preached on Sundays, unless bad weather or other extraordinary accidents prevent." The World Almanac recalls

Hostages Greet Their Families

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — The stubble-chinned hostage put his arm around his wife and said it was like fireworks on the Fourth of July when Israeli commandos attacked the hijacker stronghold at Uganda's Entebbe airport.

Red-eyed and shaky-kneed, he stood in a circle of relatives, who smiled through their tears.

Bused from Ben Gurion Airport to a nearby air force base, the freed hostages ran across the grassy lawn to meet husbands, wives and children who had waited for hours in hot sun.

As the hostages related their tales of the week-long terror, hundreds of Israelis danced the hora, drank brandy and blew triumphant blasts on the traditional ram's horns around them.

"It was the longest week of my life," said Janet Almog, from Madison, Wisc., who was among those held hostage since pro-Palestinian hijackers commandeered an Air France Airbus over Greece June 27.

"We did think we would get out, but not that way," said Mrs. Almog who is now married to an Israeli.

"They (the seven Arab and German hijackers) told us it was all a matter of days, and we had to wait for our government," she said. "And we waited."

George Garfunkel, from Brooklyn, N.Y., who wears the skullcap that identifies Orthodox Jews, said he felt ignored by the U.S. government.

"They finally, finally, came after a week," he said. "Our government did not care about us, so finally the Israeli government did care."

When the Israelis burst in firing their machine guns, "we ran for cover and about 10 minutes later everything was over and we were able to get out to safety," Garfunkel said.

The hostages said they were treated relatively well, but the food was monotonous.

"Rice, rice, rice," said Rina Kipper, 36, a Tel Aviv housewife.

She said the Israelis kept up their morale, "because we were all in it together."

The hostages said some of the men thought about turning on their captors with soda bottles, but they decided against the idea.

"I think its like a miracle from God," said Arno Helf, an Israeli. "We were playing bridge and most of the people were asleep, then we heard shooting."

"We all fell on the ground. After that we heard someone calling in Hebrew get up and go to the plane. Now we are here and we are very happy."

An old man with a thick, gray beard that reached his chest climbed on the shoulders of a burly soldier.

"The people of Israel live!" he cried.

Italians Seek New Leaders

ROME, Italy (UPI) — The Christian Democrats and the Communists Sunday pondered their choices for the presidencies of Italy's newly elected Senate and Chamber of Deputies.

Leaders of Italy's six non-fascist parties, including the Communists, met Saturday and agreed a Communist should be president of the chamber and a Christian Democrat should lead the senate.

The actual election of the new presidents was scheduled for Monday afternoon, when the two houses of parliament hold their opening meetings. But politicians said Saturday's agreement was tantamount to election and it remained only for the two parties to name their candidates.

Assigning the chamber presidency to the Communists was the ruling Christian Democrats' first concession to the West's largest Communist party since the June 20-21 national elections in which the Communists gained heavily and the Christian Democrats just held their own.

The Communists won 228 chamber seats to 262 for the Christian Democrats. The Socialists won 57 seats.

Politicians and newspapers said Nilde Jotti, vice president of the previous chamber, was the leading Communist candidate for the presidency. If chosen, she would be the first woman to head a house of the Italian parliament.

Former Premier Amintore Fanfani, a hardline anti-Communist, was the Christian Democratic front-runner for the Senate presidency which he held from 1968 to 1973. But the party's liberal factions were pushing former Interior Minister Paolo Emilio Taviani and politicians said the final choice would reflect whether the national election results have made the Christian Democrats more flexible toward accommodation with the left.

Negotiations to form Italy's 39th government in the 33 years since the fall of Fascism were expected to begin toward the end of this week.

Saturday's meeting was the Communists' first policy-making session with the Christian Democrats since the late Premier Alcide De Gasperi kicked them out of his coalition government in 1947.
